Fire kills Weber and young son

Lawrence "Larry" D. Weber, 31, and his 14-month-old son, Daniel Wayne, Granite City residents until four months ago, were burned to death in a home fire at Springfield, Ill., Saturday night.

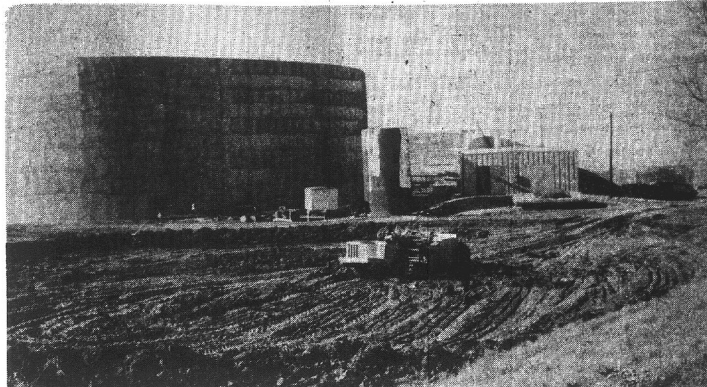

Another son, Del, four years old, was burned seriously and is in critical condition at Springfield Memorial Hospital. Mr. Weber's wife, Sharon, 25, was at work when an apparent flash fire engulfed the interior of the mobile home.

Mr. Weber and his youngest son were pronounced dead at 8:45 p.m. Saturday by Sangamon County Coroner Norman Richter, who said today that the cause of the fire has not yet been determined. An investigation into the fire was begun.

Mr. Weber's body was found in a rear bedroom and Daniel's body was in another bedroom. Del was found near the entrance doorway, authorities said.

SECOND EXPANSION PROGRAM has begun at the Tri-City Regional Port District. The Apex Oil Co. last week started construction of two additional liquid storage tanks of 4,200,000-gallon capacity each. Apex has handled the liquid terminal operation here since August 1973. Two storage tanks pictured on the left and right, which are both insulated and heated, are in the final stage of completion. Heavy earthmoving equipment like the machine pictured is being used to excavate for the base of one of the new tanks to be constructed. When completed, the expansion will bring the local port's overall storage capacity for liquid products to about 25 million gallons.

Campaigning back in style

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
Only three weeks have passed since the general election was held. But campaigning is again under way.

City officials and other political leaders in the Quad-Cities have begun looking toward the 1975 city election and some candidates for aldermanic posts in Granite City are circulating nomination petitions for a place on the April ballot. Election of municipal officials will be held during April in Granite City, Madison, Venice and Ponton Beach. In Granite City, voters will elect seven aldermen, one in each of the city's seven wards, and a superintendent of streets. Madison will elect five aldermen and Venice voters will select four aldermen. "Venice Mayor William 'Mike' Ebersoldt reports he will seek legal advice as to whether the office of city clerk will be subject to election during 1975. Lloyd Patterson, present city clerk and a former alderman, is serving in the clerk office by appointment, with more than

Running on the record

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer
Governor Dan Walker apparently will be running on "his record" if nationally noted country and western singer-composer Stan Hitchcock's song, "A Winner Walks Home," catches on. It all started when Bill Starnes, of Nashville, Tenn., Hitchcock's manager, traveled to Chicago a few weeks ago to meet with David Cleverdon, executive director of Walker's Illinois Democratic Fund (IDF) and discussed a series of fine country and western concerts to be headlined by Hitchcock throughout the state. Hitchcock described the events in an exclusive interview with the Press-Record Thursday.

On Friday, Dec. 6, at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the St. Clair County Exposition Hall, Belleville, IDF country concerts will be presented and a large audience is being sought. "When my manager talked to me about doing the series of concerts, it sounded like a good idea, but I wanted to meet the governor myself," Hitchcock related to the Press-Record. "So I went to Springfield and spent a entire day in the northern part of the state with Gov. Walker. I was really impressed with his sincerity, honesty and concern for people. I telephoned my wife in Nashville, Tenn., where we live on a farm with our five children, several dogs, cats and horses, and I told JoAnne how impressed I was with Gov. Walker.

I said we ought to write a song about him. "I told JoAnne, can't you just see him walking on an Illinois back road and the sun shining through the cornstalks. "That basically turned out to be the first line of our song. I told my wife to think on it and see how it struck her." "I called my husband back

Party fought its nominee

A loser in the District 26 County Board race Nov. 5 charged later that winner Louis Whitsell had spent heavily and was aided by campaign funds donated by various county and district nominees. Just the opposite was the case, Board Member Whitsell contends. Although he had won the Democratic nomination in the March primary election, all of the regular party organization's financial help for the November general election went to aid the two independent candidates, Whitsell told the Press-Record. Use of party funds against one of its own nominees contrasts with the procedure in past elections, when funds to dissident committees were reduced; direct help was given in previous elections to nominees in precincts where they had been omitted by the committee, Whitsell said. Of the seven precincts, one committeeman did not take an active stand, five aided one independent candidate and one aided the other independent, it was related.

Collection costs hit schools hard

Madison Superintendent of Schools John Palchiff reported to the Madison School Board at its meeting Thursday night that the cost to the Madison School District for tax collection by Madison County would be $15,000. The Madison County Board voted 21-5 Wednesday to charge taxing bodies in the county for the collection of taxes. The new charge for tax collections reportedly would cost the Granite City Schools approximately $140,000 and the Alton schools $145,000, Palchiff noted.

He informed the board that several of the school districts are checking into the legality of the new charge and that a "friendly suit" may be filed. "We are losing assessed valuation every year and we simply do not have that kind of

Brochure cites local advantages

In encouraging industrial development, a community traditionally points out the advantages it offers. The Quad-City area has just completed a recital of its plus factors, and the list is impressive. For example, there are diverse utility services.

There is location within the heart of a major metropolitan area and with convenient access to all forms of transportation.

There is a young, well-educated and highly-skilled population. And there is a pattern of assessment decreases associated with homestead exemptions, realistic property appraisals, and elimination of personal property taxes on individuals.

The promotional brochure describing the local area was released today by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and Illinois Metro East Industrial Development Corporation.

Clinic to evaluate handicaps

Granite City Elks Lodge 1063, in cooperation with the Illinois Elks Association for Physically Handicapped Children, will sponsor a free evaluation clinic for physically handicapped youngsters at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City.

Scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 7, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the hospital's old section, 4th floor, Room 6, the clinic's purpose is to identify any remediable problems in order to refer the children to physicians for appropriate services.

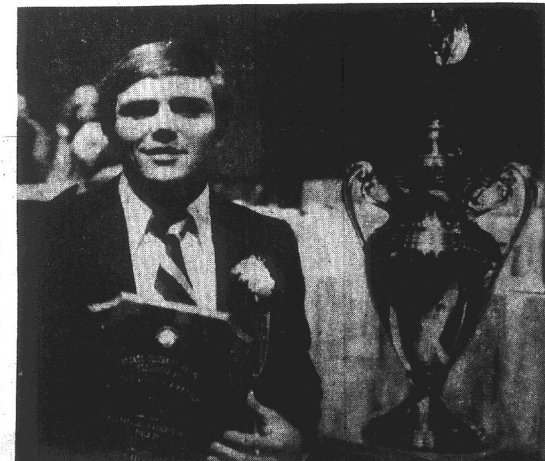

Physicians from the Granite City area will be in charge of the Elks-sponsored clinic. Any family who has a physically handicapped child from newborn to age 21 is being encouraged to bring the child for evaluation.

School nurses are being urged to refer any handicapped child they have contact with in their area.

"All Elks members with children also should take advantage of this clinic as well," Chairman Burel Schmisser commented. Children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian, he noted.

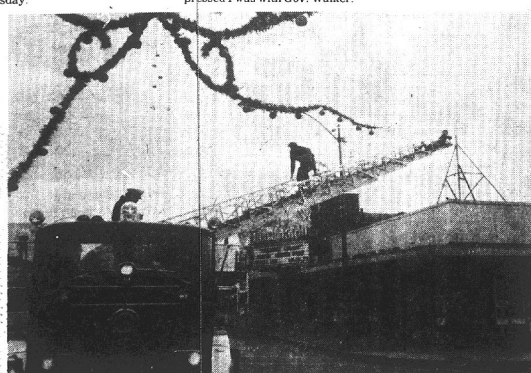

The Elks of Illinois are sponsoring clinics in 28 lodge areas, with 84 clinics held each year.

"These clinics for physically handicapped children were started 47 years ago and have provided medical and surgical care, prosthesis and physical therapy during most of this period," Schmisser related. There is no charge for evaluation services rendered at the clinic.

Miss Linda Vaughn and Denny G. Hill are wed

The wedding of Miss Linda Sue Vaughn, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prince Vaughn, 203 Kerr St., and Denny G. Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hill, 603 Jefferson Ave., all of Venice, was solemnized on Oct. 25 at the First Baptist Church in Venice.

Floral arrangements adorned the altar and burning tapers in aisle candelabra provided the setting for the double ring ceremony performed at 8 o'clock in the evening by the Rev. Billy Young.

Organist Mary Anderson accompanied Mrs. Barbara Campbell, who sang "Collar My World," "Time in a Bottle" and "First Time Ever I Saw Your Face."

For her wedding, the former Miss Vaughn chose a full length white gown fashioned with a sheer yoke. Ribbon and lace traced the yoke and high neckline.

The decorative edging marked the Empire waist and cuffs of the long sheer sleeves and encircled the semi-full skirt.

She wore a cathedral length veil bordered with delicate lace and she carried a cascade of pink and white Elegance carnations intermingled with greenery and baby breath.

Mrs. Linda Taylor, matron of honor, selected a long gown of orange floral linen made in Empire style.

Ivory lace edged the V-neckline, formed the cuffs of the long fitted sleeves and bordered a gathered flounce on the A-line skirt. She held a colonial bouquet of orange tipped pom poms festooned with orange ribbons.

Mary Lou Bowles becomes Mrs. Renick Ray Smith

The Rev. Harold Maynard performed a double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. Oct. 18 at Calvary Pentecostal Assembly Church, 4650 Maryville Road, uniting in marriage Miss Mary Lou Bowles and Renick Ray Smith.

Hurricane aisle lamps illuminated the sanctuary, which was decorated with greenery, white satin bows and bouquets of burgundy and white carnations.

Dwain Bridges sang "Because" and "O Perfect Love," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Rebecca Miller.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowles, reside at 49 Villa Drive. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith, 23 Ridgedale Drive, High Ridge, Mo.

A white Chantilly lace and organza gown designed with a bib effect on the Empire bodice and long lace sleeves was worn by the bride.

Organza ruffles accented the skirt and edged the cathedral train.

She wore a camelot headpiece to hold in place a triple-tiered illusion veil and she held a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Miss Tammy Bowles, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Diana Bowles, a sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Janis Grange, the bride's cousin.

Jeannie Bowles and Rebecca Dishner, nieces of the bride and groom, were flower girls.

All wore identical gowns of burgundy crepe fashioned with molded bodices, lantern sleeves and A-line skirts. Each attendant carried a bouquet of white roses, pink marigolds and burgundy carnations.

Dale Rose attended the groom as best man. Don Bowles, a brother of the bride, and Fred Dishner, the groom's brother-in-law, were groomsmen.

Roger Miller and Mark Maynard seated the guests and served as candlelighters. Mathew Dishner, a nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer.

Miss Gayle E. Cherry attended the guest book and Miss Ginger Bowles, a niece of the bride, distributed rice packets.

The reception was held in the church hall.

Both mothers wore formal length gowns with matching accessories. Mrs. Bowles chose a kelly green dress and Mrs. Smith appeared in a black knit frock.

The bride, a Collinsville High School graduate, is employed at Olin Corp. in East Alton. The groom was graduated from Northwest High School, House Springs, Mo., and is a salesman for Combined Insurance Company of America, Chicago.

They are residing in Granite City following a honeymoon in Missouri.

Concert at Glenview church

The Glenview Assembly of God Church, Maryville Road, and Wilson Avenue, will be the setting for a Sacred Concert to be presented by the Teen-age Evangelism Choir of Central Bible College of Springfield, Mo., Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The choir consists of 20 members who are students at Central Bible College, studying for full-time Christian service. The states that are represented by the choir members are Arizona, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, New Jersey, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin. There is one member from New Brunswick, Canada.

The choir will emphasize Jesus Christ as their theme through songs ranging in style from gospel, to traditional, to contemporary. Some of the songs to be presented are "Singing I Go," "Friendship With Jesus," "At The Cross," "Because He Lives," and "When We All Get To Heaven."

In the past, the choir has toured much of the midwest and east coast areas. Their ministry has ranged from church services to high school assemblies, from nursing homes to Army bases, and from district conventions to singing in city parks.

The director is Dale Boyer of Brookville, Pa. The host pastor is the Rev. M. W. Wilson.

Flower arranging is Pi Eta topic

Mrs. Judy Onesky, 4 Manor Drive, Collinsville, was hostess to Pi Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority last week.

The hostess also presented a program on flower arranging and each member prepared a floral design.

Mrs. Beverly Bennett, president, conducted the business session. A report on the sorority's City Council meeting was given by Mrs. Charlotte Charbonnier.

The Valentine sweetheart dance and a Founders Day observance, set for February and April, respectively, were discussed.

A Thanksgiving basket is being prepared by chapter members for delivery to a needy family on Wednesday. Mrs. Bennett said.

A social evening was planned for Saturday on the River Queen, with the husbands of members as guests.

Jana Gallardi will host the Dec. 2 "Compassion Night" meeting beginning at 7:30. Others present were Wanita Graham, Donna Yehling, Mary Anna Davis and Jan Noland.

BRIDE-ELECT, Miss Sheila Nash, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Nash, 3007 Marshall Ave., are announcing her engagement to John F. Nunes Jr., A Dec. 6 wedding is planned.

Nunes-Nash engagement told

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Nash, 3007 Marshall Ave., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sheila Nash, to John F. Nunes Jr.

The prospective groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nunes, 2134 Delmar Ave. He graduated from Granite City High School in 1973 and presently is employed at Granite City Steel.

Miss Nash is a 1974 graduate of Granite City High School. Plans are being completed for their wedding on Dec. 6 at Suburban Baptist Church.

Suzuki members elect SIUE man

John D. Kendall, professor of music and head of the string development program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been elected president of the Suzuki Association of the Americas. Named for Shinichi Suzuki, the association promotes his method of teaching violin, cello and piano to children, even those as young as 3 years of age. It includes more than 1,000 teachers and parents in the U. S., Canada and Central and South America.

In 1969, Kendall became one of the first American teachers to become interested in Suzuki's methods. He has since visited Japan three times to study and collaborate with the artist.

Suzuki has twice in 1965 and 1967, led workshops that Kendall organized at SIUE.

Kendall has taught the Suzuki method in 45 American states, and in Canada, England, Scotland and Sweden. He has written several articles and teaching manuals on the method.

The SIUE professor studied

JOHN D. KENDALL
Suzuki president

conducting with Fritz Mahler at the Juillard School of Music, and the violin with Hans Letz, Christine Dethier, Ivan Galsman, Uricio Rossi and Tossy Spivakovsky.

Kendall is first violinist of the Lincoln String Quartet, in residence at SIUE, and conductor of the University Chamber Orchestra.

Newcomers elect Mrs. Stevens

Mrs. Dody Stevens was elected president of the Granite City Newcomers Club at a meeting held last week in the 300 Room of Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl.

Other officers chosen were Mrs. Arla Ault, vice-president; Mrs. Sylvia Massman, secretary; and Mrs. Pat Massey, treasurer. An installation dinner was planned for Jan. 20.

Mrs. Irene Myer of J. & L. Hobbies exhibited 25 Christmas decorations made from kits and assisted club members in making similar decorative pieces.

Canned goods were collected for a Christmas basket to be delivered to a needy family, and a Christmas dinner party was set for 6 p.m. Dec. 15 at Rusty's Restaurant in Edwardsville. Reservations will be accepted through Dec. 9 by Mrs. Barbara Maycock, it was announced.

Mrs. Louise Ware, president, invited all women new to the community who are interested in joining the club to call 831-6190 for information.

Fifteen were served refreshments by Mrs. Massey and Mrs. Shirley Morrison, hostesses.

Philathea Class meets at church

Mrs. Genevra Wallis presented a devotional lesson at last week's meeting of the Philathea Class at Niecinghaus United Methodist Church.

Opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Edith McCasland. Refreshments were served to 13 members by the hostesses, Mesdames Marvel Clover, Pearl Campbell, Lottie Howerton and Gussie Pender.

Madison mothers make Yule plans

Mrs. Georgia Stawar, president of the Madison School Mother Club, presided at a meeting last week when plans were made for a Christmas party on Dec. 17.

Each member was asked to bring her favorite covered dish to the event.

Mrs. Rita Ford and Mrs. Lenora Brown were named co-chairmen of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Stawar said the superintendent of schools, principals and their wives will be invited to attend. She also sought volunteers to decorate Christmas trees at Harris and Louis Baer schools.

The Mothers Club will provide candy canes and a Christmas film at Harris School and donate money for a film to be shown at Louis Baer School, it was reported.

Hostesses for the evening were Karen Broyles and Betty Comer. They served refreshments to those named and to Rose Lawrence, Janet Shultz, LaVarna Harris, Rose Rife, Edith Miller, Jettie Thornton, Lueli Wooten, Margaret Blackshire, Ericka Kellers, Mary Pryor, Lonnie Layton and Mary Anna Kaminski.

Walker woos Daley foe and Wallace advocates

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

Dan Walker is probably the most underestimated governor Springfield has known in our lifetimes.

This is not based on his performance in office, but on his popular appeal.

A week of leisurely vacationing - which took this column to such contrasting locales as Calhoun County and the metropolis of Chicago - has once again confirmed a persistent suspicion that the view held of Walker in this Capital

City and other areas of the state are themselves in sharp contrast.

Those close to the state government in Springfield consider Walker a poor governor, big on promise and poor in performance. Among non-political careerists in state government, he is rated far below his predecessor Richard B. Ogilvie.

After almost two full years in office, there is virtually nothing to point to in the way of major accomplishments.

Astonishingly, however, his name crops up more and more frequently as a possible Democratic nominee for president in 1976. Why, one must inevitably ask himself, should this be so?

The answer is not to be found in Springfield. The unreality comes into clearer focus for reality beyond the banks of the Sangamon.

It seems that in these topsy-turvy times, people are less concerned about what an elected official may be doing in office than they are about how he comes across as a personality.

Apparently what the people want is somebody new in government and politics. And in Illinois, at least, they feel they have found him in Walker.

This view is reinforced by reaction to some recent Walker moves.

Most Statehouse politicians have decided two recent and dramatic Walker moves. One was his virtual endorsement of decidedly underdog Alderman William Singer for mayor of Chicago. The second was his trip to Alabama and lavish praise of Gov. George C. Wallace.

But beyond Springfield one finds the somewhat surprising reaction that a lot of Illinois voters approve both moves. Once again, it appears to be a case of Walker against "them."

"Them" applies to traditional politicians and officeholders. Scoff if you will, but a lot of Illinois voters are clearly buying the Walker line that he is one of "us."

It is a factor not to be discounted in attempting to foresee the future of politics in this state, if not in the entire country as well.

Whatever his performance as governor, Walker has stamped himself as one of the shrewdest politicians ever to occupy the Executive Mansion.

His stunning upset of popular Lt. Gov. Paul Simon in the 1972 Democratic primary and his winning of the governorship in a predominantly Republican election year are firm proof of this.

Walker's public wooing of Wallace - far from being a blunder - was another example of his political shrewdness. Those who assert that his praising of Wallace will cost Walker popularity in his home state overlook the strength the Alabama governor has displayed in Illinois.

In the 1968 election, Wallace running as a third-party candidate attracted almost nine per cent of the total vote in Illinois.

Outside of the South, his showing in this state ranked among his best.

It is likely that Wallace is more popular in Illinois today than he was six years ago.

Those 300,956 Illinoisans who voted for Wallace in 1968 are not disturbed by Walker's praise of him. They can, in fact, be counted on to vote for Walker the next time he runs for any office.

As for his dispatch of top political strategist deGrazia to help in the Singer mayoralty campaign, Walker again stands to gain far more than he can lose.

Although the Statehouse has been rife with rumors of a "deal" between Daley and Walker, the political facts of life make this about as likely as Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes winning a good sportsmanship award.

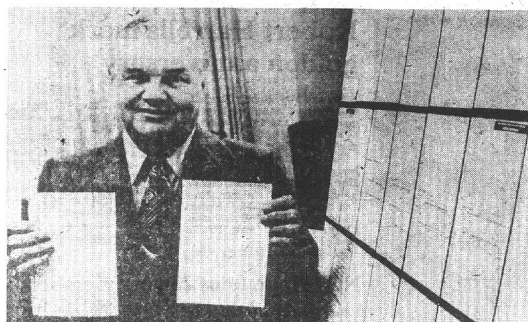

Daley and Walker are on a collision course. There can only be one Democratic boss in Illinois.

At 72 and with health problems, it is inevitable that Daley will soon be retreating from absolute party power.

Walker, as in the past, has once again maneuvered himself into position to claim credit for a development that would have taken place anyway.

But most important of all, Walker in his moves with Wallace and Singer has again grabbed a big chunk of national publicity which could have far-reaching, whether happy or somber, effects on the future course of American politics.

RED TAPE REDUCTION. Illinois Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett holds up the two new forms which will replace 24 different forms (shown at right) now being used to apply for vehicle license plates and certificates of title. This change is part of a new Regi-title program Howlett is organizing to "speed up service and save taxpayers' money." One form will be used for all vehicles licensed on a calendar year and the other for those licensed on a state fiscal year basis.

Bikeway, bicycle safety goals voiced by Howlett

Michael J. Howlett, Illinois Secretary of State, on Saturday night invited park districts to join in a statewide bicycle safety program his office is developing.

Howlett was the banquet speaker at the annual parks and recreation conference of the Illinois Association of Park Districts at Stouffer's Riverfront Towers, St. Louis. Granite City Park Supt. Harold Brown was host for delegate tours at the start of the four-day meeting Thursday.

"The energy crisis and high prices have discouraged people from traveling long distances for recreation," said Howlett. "They are using their local parks more."

"At the same time, there is a steady rise in popularity of the bicycle for transportation, exercise and fun. It doesn't need expensive gasoline, and you don't need a state driver's license to use it."

"With the increase in cycling, the increase in accidents is a concern."

"Collisions of bikes with cars and trucks killed about 1,250 persons last year, including 31 in Illinois."

"Every community should have a bicycle safety program. Many of them do. I urge all 319 of our Illinois park districts to participate."

"Next spring, my office will offer one-day seminars in different sections of Illinois to help park districts organize their own bike safety programs."

"We have a Bicycle Safety Advisory Committee of experts in education, law enforcement, bicycle engineering and accident prevention, some of whom will lecture at the seminars."

"They will show how to inspect a bicycle; how to use the Bicycle Rules of the Road as an instructional tool; and how to stage a Bicycle Rodeo, where cyclists can test their skills through obstacle courses or in relay races."

"We will have movies, other visual materials and literature at the seminars which park districts can obtain to organize their own programs."

"Bicycle safety involves parental responsibility, responsibility of the motorist and also of the whole adult population. But most of all, it involves education of children."

"It should be part of the curriculum of every elementary school. But the park, with its emphasis on fitness programs and recreation, is a natural site for bikeways and bike safety education."

"For their own protection, we must teach cyclists they must obey the same traffic laws as motorists."

"The youngster who is taught to ride his bike safely and responsibly will be a better motorist when he reaches driving age," Howlett concluded.

AT OKINAWA BASE
Marine PFC Keith A. Jordan, son of Mrs. Shirley G. Jordan, 2222 Washington Ave., has reported for duty with the 3rd Force Service Regiment at the U.S. Marine Corps Base, Okinawa. He joined the Marine Corps in December 1973.

Reply from Pres. Ford

Earl Harris, owner of Earl's Discount Store, 19th Street and Cleveland Blvd., has received a personal reply from President Gerald R. Ford after responding to the chief executive's request for anti-inflation and fuel conservation ideas.

Pres. Ford related that "your unhesitating response to my request for suggestions to stop inflation and save energy is greatly appreciated."

"With the help of ideas from families and individuals across the land, our country can overcome this serious problem. This is a difficult time for all of us. Victory is assured, however, by the will and spirit of Americans to win."

"I am enclosing your 'Win' buttons to show that you were one of the earliest inflation fighters to enlist. Thank you again, and keep it up."

Test opposing strategies as South hosts Madison quintet

Tomorrow's 8 p.m. cage contest between the Madison Trojans and GCIS South Warriors at South's gym may provide fans from both schools with confusion as well as excitement.

Madison, long famous for its "monster" zone press defense, backs player quickness this year and may come up with an all-new strategy in attempting to stop enemy offenses.

South, attempting to improve its 1-22 record of last season and avenge a 60-40 loss to Madison, has developed a double-pivot offense which Coach Bryan Wilkinson hopes will force opponents to send their defenders inside and open the way for Warrior long shots.

Madison's Larry Graham says, "If that is what we are going to face, then that will throw out the matchup zone and man-to-man which we have been practicing."

Graham said the only strategy to counteract the Warrior effort might be to set up an unusual type of defense. South's prospects at pivot positions are Ken Bertrand, 6-5 senior, and Jim Nolen, 6-6 junior.

"I think we'll be ready," says Wilkinson. "We have lost only one player, other than Tom Schooley, to injuries."

The South member reports that David Roberts, a 6-5 sophomore forward and "sixth starter," suffered a broken hand in practice. Schooley was on the injury list previously.

The Trojans also are having problems. Coach Graham reports that Evan Dandridge, a 6-4 player, has been ruled ineligible to compete.

Daryl Franklin, a 6-2 senior who was expected to be the Trojan squad's key rebounder this year, is suffering from a recurrence of an injury received this fall in football.

Franklin is to be replaced by Ron Jones, a 6-1 junior, considered to be an able passer with the ability to be an outstanding defensive player.

Regardless of the contest's outcome, both schools will be testing what strategies to apply during the next season.

News notes

With the last 2,500 draftees due for discharge, the Army said Friday it has become virtually an all-volunteer force.

The Senate on Thursday passed overriding of two Presidential vetoes on a freedom of information act and 90-1 on vocational rehabilitation.

The Alton School Board Thursday night called for a study possibly leading to a suit against the new Madison County ordinance charging taxing agencies for the collection of taxes.

The General Assembly on Thursday rejected additional funding sought by Illinois State Fair officials, who said they have debts exceeding $800,000 work on repairs and remodeling work on fairgrounds buildings.

A hearing will be held Dec. 2 in the Madison County Circuit Court on an Illinois Racing Board order revoking licenses of two Cahokia Downs horse race track concessionaires linked with the Empress firm.

The Senate Rules Committee voted 9-0 Friday to recommend the approval of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be Vice President.

Bi-State Transit System would get $53 million in the next six years under an $11 billion transit bill passed by Congress and sent to President Gerald Ford.

General Manager James E. Terry said Friday most of it will be used for wages and fuel rather than new services.

The Communications Service based at a Richards-Gebauer Air Force Base in Missouri, with 1,186 military and 752 civilian jobs, is to be transferred to Scott base at Belleville, in addition to a Langley Base, Va., tactical airlift squadron involving 757 military and civilian personnel, the Air Force said Friday.

Speculation continues that the burned Fairmont Park horse race track will be rebuilt. Construction plans are being prepared.

A Greyhound Bus Co. strike has ended, permitting long-distance trips to be resumed before the Thanksgiving weekend.

Dr. Joseph M. Cronin, 39, Massachusetts state education secretary, was chosen 11-1 Saturday by the Illinois State Board of Education as its first appointive superintendent, succeeding Dr. Michael Bakalis Jan. 13. Cronin has a 2 1/2-year contract at a yearly pay of $48,000. He is a past associate dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

The Illinois Senate in a 27-27 vote Friday upheld Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of a bill that would have required economic impact studies of new and present pollution control rules.

The three local post offices and eight others in Madison County will sell food stamps starting March 1, it was announced at last week's meeting of the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission.

Ideas of an estimated 80 officials and citizens will be utilized to guide expenditure of $7 million in community development funds if Madison County succeeds in obtaining such a grant, it was explained at a meeting last week of mayors studying the proposal. A five-district board is to be formed to govern the program.

Col. Guy Jester, former district Army engineer, will address the Northwestern Illinois Council of Mayors at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Belleville.

Madison FSA unit to elect Tuesday

The newly organized Future Secretaries Association at Madison High School will hold its first election of officers Tuesday after school, Lee Ashby and Mrs. Beverly Immings, faculty advisors, reported.

Thirty-eight NIS secretarial students attended the organizational meeting. The Tri-Cities Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, sponsors of the high school club, will host an initiation ceremony on Dec. 8.

HOUSE BURGLARY
Kenneth Nicol, 3019 Marshall Ave., reported to police that a meeting last week of mayors studying the proposal. A five-district board is to be formed to govern the program.

Thanksgiving at St. Bartholomew

Thanksgiving will be observed at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church with the choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Ledbetter, parish organist, will open the service with three variations of the Choral: In Peace and Joy I Go My Way, by J. Walther, J. S. Bach and J. Brahms.

The offertory will be variations on "Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee" by Ledbetter, and the postlude will be J. S. Bach's choral prelude, "Nun Danket Allen Gott."

The Rev. William L. Lear, rector of St. Bartholomew's, will celebrate the Eucharist and preach on the topic "Thanks—For What?"

The traditional Thanksgiving offering at the local church will be sent to the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief to be used in the War on Hunger.

The Rev. Lear said. The occasion will mark the first offering in the parish of a year long program of self-denial and sacrificial giving to help feed the hungry of the world, the minister said.

On Thanksgiving Day the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 9 a.m. in St. Thomas Church, Glen Carbon.

Eugene Clanton, 54, dies

Eugene D. "Gene" Clanton, 54, of 2444 Center St., ill for five days, died at 10:45 a.m. Sunday at Firmin Deagle Hospital, St. Louis.

A native of Paducah, Ky., he resided in East St. Louis before he moved to this area 12 years ago.

He was employed as a clerk for the A&P Tea Co., East St. Louis, for 30 years.

Mr. Clanton was a member of the Amalgamated Meatcutters Local 534 and a former member of the Bartenders Union. He was a member of VFW Post 1300 and Madison Armvets Post 204 and was a past commander of VFW Post 805 of East St. Louis.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Doris Clanton; one daughter, Mrs. William (Marlyn) Loycock of Granite City; a brother, James Wyatt of Cahokia; two sisters, Mrs. Donald (Winnie) Kane of Belleville and Mrs. Ed (Mary Ellen) Collier of Paducah, Ky., and his mother, Mrs. Sula Wyatt of Paducah.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Leo Balcewicz dies at 67

Leo C. Balcewicz, 67, of E. Perry St., Maryville, a half-brother of Granite City residents, died at 2 p.m. Sunday at his home. He had been ill five years.

A member of Our Mother of Perpetual Help Church, he also belonged to the Holy Name Society at the church.

Mr. Balcewicz was employed as a preman for 45 years at the St. Louis Post Dispatch newspaper until four years ago when he retired.

He was born in St. Louis and also had resided in E. St. Louis. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Berry (Prelec) Balcewicz; one brother, Walter Balcewicz of East St. Louis, a half-brother, Andrew Balcewicz of Tooele, Utah; and two half-sisters, Mrs. Lawrence (Rose) Dard, Mrs. Stephen, Harrisburg, Ill., and Mrs. Clarence (Helen) Ridenhour, both of Granite City; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Mrs. Mary Tullock succumbs

Mrs. Mary Louise (Stephens) Tullock, 45, was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 3:45 p.m. Sunday.

She was taken to the hospital by ambulance from her home, 3801 Lake Drive, Lot 317, where her body was discovered by a friend who came to the dwelling after failing to reach Mrs. Tullock by phone on several attempts during the day.

Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department personnel were summoned to the scene. Mrs. Tullock was found in the bathroom, where apparently she became ill and collapsed earlier Sunday. An inquiry is pending.

Mrs. Tullock was born in Leadwood, Mo., and had lived here 3 1/2 years. She was a former resident of Festus, Mo.

For the past 12 years, she was employed as an assembler at the White-Rodgers Electrical Co. in Affton, Mo. She was a member of the VFW Auxiliary and Armvets Auxiliary, both in DeSoto, Mo.

Surviving are one son, John Robert Tullock Jr., who is stationed with the U.S. Army in Germany; a daughter, Mrs. Terry (Geri Lynne) Marsden of Festus; and three brothers, Glenwood Stephens, Charlotte, N. C.; James Stephens, Berkeley, Mo.; and Pete Stephens, Harrisburg, Ill.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Different Volks for different folks.

VW Beetle

While most prices in our town have gone up, up, up, the Beetle's has stayed the same, same, same: only $2625*.

The "Thing"

The cost of every "Thing" in our town has just gone down from $3150 to $2775.* And it seems even less expensive when you compare it to the price of a Jeep, Land Rover or Land Cruiser.

412 Wagon

Simply can't do without plush wall-to-wall carpeting, fuel injection, or an automatic transmission? Fret not. Our year-end savings on the 412 make these the kind of luxuries you can still afford.

Dasher

Granted $4,000 is $4,000.* But it's also a small price to pay for what POPULAR MECHANICS calls "...a perfect combination of styling and engineering."

Incidentally, folks, the '75s are coming in every day. Ask your local dealer for a sneak preview.

*Suggested Retail Prices P.D.E. Beetle 111 $2625, Dasher 2-dr sedan $2975, 181 "Thing" $2775. Local taxes and any other dealer delivery charges additional.

Connole promoted

John G. Connole, a native Granite Cityan, has been named director of program management for Litton Medical Systems, it has been announced at Chicago by division president Dr. George B. Rathmann.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Connole, he will be responsible for managing all of the programs for the company's emerging advanced diagnostic x-ray equipment lines.

Connole brings a broad, 20-year background in program management to his new post. He has served as director of programs for the Litton Medical Products group, as operations director in Singapore for Litton World Trade Corp., and in Woodland Hills, Calif., as program manager for Litton's Guidance and Control Systems division. Earlier, he was with the Autometrics division of Rockwell International.

A graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Connole has a bachelor of science degree in industrial management, and also has completed studies in other areas with the American Management Association and the Sales Analysis Institute.

He is a member of the Electronics Industries Association and the Association for Advancement of Medical Instrumentation.

Litton Medical Systems, a

The division distributes its products through its worldwide network of sales and service offices and dealers.

Caseyville man faces 4 charges

A Caseyville man was cited on four traffic charges following an accident at 6 p.m. Thursday on Edwards Road at 13th Street.

Police said an auto operated by Louis C. Kaleta, 43, of 2827 Pershing Blvd., stopped to make a left turn, was struck from the rear by a vehicle, whose driver reportedly backed up and left the scene.

Officers found the car at an Edwards Road address without the driver, who was arrested a short time later. Ronnie L. Colston, 24, of Caseyville, was charged with failure to give aid or information; leaving the scene of an accident; failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident; and driving while his license is revoked.

Kaleta was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for a neck injury. He had x-rays taken of the skull and spine and was released.

TRAIN ACCIDENT

A car struck by an Amtrak train at the West Pontoon Road crossing last week was driven by Carl Clark. An earlier report said in error that the car was driven by Frederick Clark. No one was injured in the accident.

Atom committee to accept veto

Chairman Melvin Price and Vice Chairman John O. Pastore of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy have announced the decision of the Joint Committee not to seek to override the President's veto of H.R. 15323, the bill to amend Price-Anderson provisions of the Atomic Energy Act.

In his veto message, the President supported the substantive provisions of the bill but considered unconstitutional the feature in Section 12 which would permit Congress to stop the act from becoming effective by adoption of a concurrent resolution to that effect.

Members of the Joint Committee expressed their complete endorsement of the substantive features of H.R. 15323 and recommended that Cong. Price and Sen. Pastore give this legislation priority consideration upon the convening of the 94th Congress.

It was decided not to pursue the matter during the remainder of this session of the 93rd Congress due to the limitation of time, the pressures of other legislation and the Vice Presidential confirmation sought before sine die adjournment.

Two arrested at Nameoki Village

Responding to an alarm at Sears Roebuck Catalog store in Nameoki Village Shopping Center at 11:37 p.m. Thursday, police reported finding two youths in a trailer at the rear of the building.

Arrested and charged with burglary were Paul W. Mosevich, 17, of 2657 Benton St., and a 16-year-old Granite City youth.

On the ground near the trailer police allegedly discovered a screwdriver, pliers, a strip metal and the cylinder portion of a lock.

Stops motorist, breaks glasses

Roy Baumbarger, 2418 Woodlawn Ave., reported at 6:20 p.m. Thursday that another motorist stopped Baumbarger's auto at Nameoki and Pontoon Roads, opened the left car door and pulled the victim's glasses off, breaking them on the pavement.

The unidentified assailant alleged Baumbarger had pulled out in front of his car on Pontoon Road at Wabash. The glasses were valued at $65.

Commissioned in Air Force

Michael Ridge, 22, son of Granite City Patrolman and Mrs. Raymond D. "Mike" Ridge, 2805 Sunset Drive, recently enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and has been commissioned a second lieutenant in USAF Nurse Corps.

Ridge, a 1973 graduate of the St. Louis Municipal School of Nursing, has been employed the past year as head nurse of the Emergency Department at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis. He graduated in 1970 from Granite City High School.

The serviceman left yesterday for Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Tex., where he will attend Officers Candidate School.

Upon completion of his training, Ridge will be stationed at Andrews Air Force Base in Washington, D. C.

New airport only realistic way for St. Louis region to achieve its true potential—Saunders

Talk by Arven H. Saunders, executive director, St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority, at a luncheon last week of the "Impact" Illinois-Missouri group formed to seek improved airport facilities.

Finally the airport issue is approaching resolution. The time for the airport decision is fast approaching—perhaps only a matter of three or four months from now.

All of the things that must be weighed in that judgment are both complex and technical. To compound the problem, the judgment must be based on assumptions about what things will be like in ten, twenty, thirty and even more years.

All of these factors make it hard for the person on the street—the typical citizen—to see the full picture.

To get to the heart of the matter, what will things be like just ten years from now—the earliest possible time that a new airport can be ready?

There have been many projections over the past several years. Most have been responsible efforts by reputable planners to assist decision makers.

Right now there is so much pessimism throughout the country that current predictions are considerably lower than they were a few years ago.

The gloomiest aviation numbers to date have been developed—on a preliminary, unofficial and tentative basis, to use their words—by the Air Transport Association, the trade and lobbying organization of the airlines.

But since the release of the ATA figures within the last several weeks, the Department of Transportation released a forecast of St. Louis aviation activity prepared by the firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co.

The population of St. Louis is now shown as three million for the year 2000. Just a couple of years ago, East-West Airlines Co. Coordinating Council was predicting 3.8 million for 1995.

For a look at just how these pessimistic figures are generated by pessimistic inputs, refer to the total employment figures.

Although St. Louis now has about 342,000 jobs, down from the one million peak in late 1969, the study assumes it will be another five years before St. Louis recovers lost ground.

If, instead of losing jobs, St. Louis had kept up with the national average, we would now have an additional 145,600 jobs. The total population aged 18-64, representing the labor force, rises from 1.3 million in 1970 to 1.5 million in 1980, but the number of jobs is constant.

The trend then is constant for the remaining forecast years, or 500,000 more people in the working age bracket than there is forecast for jobs.

The assumption that is cranked into the aviation forecast formula is that St. Louis will further decline economically.

Even with PMM's dire forecast of low employment in the St. Louis area, their figures show a more optimistic outlook for aviation activity for St. Louis, forecasting a level of passenger boardings about 10 per cent higher than ATA.

Significantly, Peat, Marwick forecasts the highest level of total aircraft operations or movements that any forecaster has predicted, even including the highest forecast of air carrier operations by McDonnell Douglas.

While we still have not seen the final copy, the PMM study, we have attended a briefing and received a summary. The final report will be available in about six weeks.

The report forecast 13.7 million passengers would be enplaned at Lambert in the year 2000, approximately four times the present passengers but about half the passengers previously forecast by R. Dixon Speas, the Northport Corp. for the State of Missouri, and McDonnell Douglas.

This new information from PMM deserves a closer look. The 13.7 million passenger forecast is called "most likely," but in a sensitivity analysis PMM shows how dependent the forecasts are, in PMM's judgment, to various assumed

This analysis depicts the pessimistic elements but also gives us a tantalizing view of what could happen if St. Louis throws off the present gloomy outlook.

The last two items—a return to rapid population and economic growth, and an increase in the percentage of transfer passengers—reflect the more cheerful result of assuming an optimistic future for St. Louis.

In fact, if both of these items were to occur, the enplanement level for the year 2000 would be 29.9, very close to the previous optimistic forecast.

The Lambert 2000 proponents predicted 30 million enplanements for the year 2000. Let's go back to transfer passengers for a moment. They presently run 38 per cent of total St. Louis enplanements.

Airlines estimate that the transfer percentage for St. Louis could rise to 50 per cent, if facilities were available.

Yet PMM used only 46 per cent and 46 per cent. If the airlines are right, there would be an equal number of local originations and transfers in the year 2000 and the 13.7 enplanements would rise to 14.8.

If transfers rose to 55 per cent, the total would be 17.6 and if 60 per cent, 19.8 enplanements.

Now, the percentage of transfer passengers at other large cities. A few years ago, St. Louis was fourth in the country; we are now seventh.

It appears that St. Louis is already losing in the race for transfer passengers.

This is most unfortunate because, without any question, St. Louis in light of its geography and prominence ought to approach the rankings of Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas and Denver.

The highlights a key point I have been trying to stress. All of the numbers will always be low if you accept the assumption that St. Louis will continue to decline and will fail to take advantage of its geographic position and economic potential. In my opinion, we must not accept such dire predictions.

Note also that the sensitivity analysis addresses the short-takeoff-and-land (STOL) and short haul impact.

The study indicates that such a separate system would divert only 7.5 per cent from the most likely enplanement figure.

This view is consistent with our previous estimates that a STOL system, if implemented, would not drive off the ultimate saturation of Lambert Field. Or, as the Federal Aviation Administration put it—

"...would not negate the need for a new airport."

Figures for 1980 and 1990 are just as enlightening. They indicate that in 1985 Lambert will be more than twice as busy—in terms of airline traffic—as it is today.

If they are right, there will be about seven million passengers enplaned at Lambert, while McDonnell Douglas previously forecast about 13 million.

In the Lambert 2000 plan, the Missouri authority predicted 15 million passengers by 1990, almost the current level at Chicago O'Hare.

As far as aircraft operations are concerned, Lambert will be in trouble even before 1985. The PMM study forecast 421,000 aircraft movements for 1980—only five years from now.

The Parsons master plan study relating to Lambert's capacity reports that Lambert's practical annual capacity is only 322,000 operations, nearly 100,000 operations short.

The FAA establishes criteria by which the practical annual capacity (PANCAP) of an airport can be calculated.

The PANCAP of an airport is the number of landings and takeoffs (operations) which an airport can handle without excessive delays.

This means that in 1980 Lambert will be operating at 30 per cent above its PANCAP, a situation similar to Chicago O'Hare.

The chart on total aircraft operations clearly shows that after 1980, Lambert's operations will be seriously and artificially constrained.

At Chicago, officials are considering moving 40 per cent of O'Hare's traffic to Midway, which would then relieve O'Hare to resume growth.

No such luxury exists for St. Louis. And, Parsons says, with all conceivable improvements including technological improvements which may never come to pass—Lambert's practical capacity could be increased to 360,000 operations. This is still far short of what will be needed only five years from now.

Compare total aircraft operations with unconstrained general aviation forecasts at Lambert. It is apparent that after 1980, general aviation growth is severely curtailed under the "most likely" and restriction policies categories—as compared to the potential demand, shown as "greatest demand."

If Lambert is retained as the sole major airport then, this potential will never be achieved.

After reviewing the PMM forecast, some have concluded that all St. Louis needs is more general aviation facilities—not a new airport.

After reviewing the PMM forecast, we conclude that even if maximum diversion of general aviation to other airports were to occur, the demand for total operations at Lambert would still exceed the capacity of Lambert by 1980.

By 1985, a Lambert expanded to its maximum potential would be at most only a few years away from the time when it literally would have to close its doors to any additional traffic.

The region would still be faced with the need for a major new airport—and finding a site probably would be impossible.

The airlines' move from Love Field to the new Dallas-Fort Worth airport did not have an adverse effect on the Love Field area.

The airlines' move from Love to the new airport opened new opportunities for Love Field. The same is true of the area around the old Kansas City airport.

While the new Dallas-Fort Worth airport has had some widely publicized start-up problems—and some problems arising out of its design—it still is developing new traffic, handling more passengers and operating more flights than had been estimated.

Meanwhile, general aviation is enjoying more elbow room at Love, with dramatically increased operations.

The Love Field ranking in general aviation operations has gone from 32nd to fifth in the U.S.

Under other words, in airports as with most other things, use tends to be shaped by capability.

Can anyone seriously question how Lambert is holding St. Louis back when the Airline Pilots Association has gone on record favoring a new airport, saying that Lambert—even at today's traffic levels—is already "at the limits of its operational capabilities."

The Association says that Lambert, without the acquisition of a considerable amount of adjacent land, cannot provide the space for new runways, taxiways, clear zones and the like, which are essential for increased traffic flow without compromising safety.

The August 1974 issue of "Distribution Worldwide," the trade magazine of traffic managers, puts it succinctly: "One of the city's (St. Louis) soft underbellies, a weakness to be shored up in its transportation network, is the need for a new airport."

Perhaps the need for providing adequate airport capacity can be seen when compared with some well-known parallels. Where would this area be if I-270-244-255 had not been built, and the region still relied solely on Lindbergh Boulevard?

Could an "expanded" Lindbergh serve the needs of the metropolitan area, or would a new highway better serve them? The answer is obvious. The alternative of expanding Lambert was examined and rejected by Northport, in their study for Missouri; by TAMMS for the City of St. Louis; and by Speas for the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority.

There has never been any realistic, feasible plan for expanding Lambert to make it suitable for meeting the long-range needs for this region's air commerce.

While we supported the present Lambert master plan to identify interim improvements, it should be pointed out that Lambert has had a series of master plans since 1947, at least.

A master plan, satisfactory to FAA, is a prerequisite to a federal airport master plan. One proposal of a way that Lambert might do was the Lambert 2000 plan. It was the key element in the well-financed campaign during the so-called "airport referendum."

But the Lambert 2000 plan faded into obscurity when McDonnell Douglas found it so encroaching that perhaps 18,000 of that company's jobs would be moved from the area.

While the 2000 plan was dropped, the pro-Lambert 2000 referendum vote was not, and it is continually raised in support of a "Lambert forever" position.

Contrast these problems at Lambert—problems that cannot be solved—with the proposal to build the new St. Louis Intercontinental Airport at Columbia-Waterloo.

The land is there. It meets the environmental requirements. There is money to start.

Access will be provided primarily by bridges and Interstate roadways that already are a part of the area's approved highway plan, but with a new bridge and new roads as well.

And Lambert will be available, as is Love Field, for a major general aviation airport. Again, the money is available. So are the funds for the roads that will be needed—and for the transit line that will link up with whatever kind of mass transportation system the area develops.

When you make a fair comparison of the kind of expanded air schedules that will be available, the working costs, freedom from delays, schedule reliability, ease of access to all—not just North County people who live near Lambert—and the other elements that are a part of any trip by air, the Columbia-Waterloo airport will be superior for the great majority of residents of both the Missouri and Illinois parts of the metropolitan area.

The only valid comparison that can be made is between the Columbia-Waterloo location and a Missouri site west of Wentzville.

Finally, it is important to recognize that far more than just an airport is on the line. Transportation superiority—in the air, on the water, by rail and on the highway—has been pinpointed as the key to turning this area around and enabling it to achieve its true potential.

Let's turn back the pages of history for a moment. The time is August 1928—almost a half century ago. Here is a Page 1 newspaper headline, "Finest airport in U.S. planned for St. Louis."

That was the goal set for

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Mon., Nov. 25, 1974 Page 9

Lambert at a time when some still yearned for use of an old landing area in Forest Park. Even in those days, there were cries that Lambert was too far away from the people and certain to be a white elephant.

Lambert was not built by St. Louisans who said, "Union Station is enough or Union Station is the only station you'll ever need."

Lambert was built by those who did not know precisely what shape the future would take, but who wanted St. Louis to be out front—those who knew that leadership in air transportation was essential to that purpose. We should not settle for less now.

Protestant Welfare elects

Clarence Baumeier, president of the Protestant Welfare Association, Inc., announced that names of needy families eligible for Christmas baskets is available at the Salvation Army office, during a meeting of the organization at DeWey Avenue United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Raymond Clodfelter, host pastor, gave the devotions taken from Psalms, and also offered the closing prayer.

Mrs. Minnie Dillard submitted a nominating report followed by the members re-electing the present corps of officers. They are Baumeier, president; Kenneth Whittington, first vice-president;

Bryan Waggoner, second vice-president; Mrs. Irma Taylor, secretary; and Roy Lynn, treasurer.

The need to repair and redecorate the living quarters at the Protestant Welfare building was reported by Bryan Waggoner.

Reports also were given by committees and officers.

Mrs. Marie Whittle, office secretary, announced 40 cases involving 91 persons were processed during October. Total cost of relief assistance was $405, plus 18 orders of clothing and shoes from the Store Room valued at $164.

The next meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue.

Romance book series available

By RAY TEVIS Librarian

Granite City Public Library
The Harlequin Romance paperback series is one of the best-known and best-read romance series.

The Library is now receiving seven romances a month from Harlequin in hardbound editions. These romances are published by Mill & Boon in London, and are published in paperback by Harlequin in Canada.

The Library received its first shipment from Harlequin last week. Two of the romances are Joanne Marshall's "Babylon Was Dust" and Margaret Chapman's "The Silver Sorceress."

The Children's Department has completed arrangements for a special Christmas program for elementary-age children.

The program will feature Mimi Zanger and her puppets, especially Punch and Judy. There will be other special guests and treats for the children.

The Christmas program will be in Fellowship Hall, Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, 20th Street and Delmar Avenue, Dec. 23 at 2 p.m. Plan to attend.

This week's question: What type of cargo did the "Mayflower" carry before it became a passenger vessel? The "Mayflower" carried wine. And the alcohol which spilled in the wooden ship because of broken kegs probably helped to preserve the ship and to kill bacteria, thereby preventing serious illness among the ship's passengers.

NEWS AND NEW ITEMS.
The Library will hold a book sale in its 20th Street Lobby during the week of Dec. 9.

All types of books—children's, nonfiction, mystery, western—will be sold at nominal prices.

The Library is continually increasing the number of volumes in its sight-savers-large print collection. A recent addition is Lawrence W. Cahill's and Peter J. Panting's "Cacti and Succulents."

Can you choose the sex of your children? David M. Rorvik and Landrum B. Shettles discuss this issue in "Your Baby's Sex: Now You Can Choose."

Regardless of the sex of your children, Bonnie Prudden's "Your Baby Can Swim" offers instructions on teaching babies how to swim.

She also explores the many ways of communicating with babies, the importance of physical closeness and shared activities, and the excitement of mutual exploration and discovery. This book will be of interest to all parents with small children.

Robin Wight examines past mistakes of the advertising industry in "The Day the Pigs Refused to Be Driven to Market; Advertising and the Consumer Revolution."

Wight suggests some techniques the advertising industry can use to win back the alienated consumer.

Campaign financing is the subject to George Thayer's "Who Shakes the Money Tree? American Campaign Financing Practices from 1789 to the Present."

Two new biographies have arrived. Robert A. Hutchison's "Vesco" narrates Robert Vesco's manipulations—allegedly the biggest securities fraud of modern times. "Irving Berlin" by Michael Freedland recreates the life of one of America's most famous and popular composers.

Reading stressed as essential to learning

An estimated 1,200 educators from the St. Louis metropolitan area and the southwestern region of Illinois assembled on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus Saturday for the 10th annual Reading Conference sponsored by the SIUE elementary education department and extension services.

Edward Frierson, director of the Learning Center at Nashville, Tenn., and author of numerous publications on the subject of learning problems, was the conference keynote speaker. More than 30 exhibitors presented reading materials in displays.

Twenty panel discussion groups were featured in two sessions. Prominent contributors led each group. Because the sessions were repeated, conferees had the opportunity to participate in several interest groups.

Subjects were discussed at four levels—primary, intermediate, secondary and special areas. The subjects included:

Primary—classroom

diagnosis of reading difficulties, adapting the basal reader to an individualized program, help for perceptual problems, learning centers for reading in the open classroom, the transition room, learning modalities in the primary reading program, games that reinforce phonics, and pre-reading skills—what, when and how

Intermediate—effective group strategies, multilevel materials for reading, teaching reading with a basal reader, learning centers and reading, comprehension strategies, classroom management of reading disabilities, motivational strategies for reading, and using creative activities in reading.

Secondary—programs emphasizing reading as a process in secondary schools, and critical reading and thinking as a reading skill in secondary schools.

Special areas—sides in the reading program, and strategies for improving teacher and student attitudes toward learning.

Seven divorces granted

Seven Quad-City area couples have obtained divorces in Madison County Circuit Court. Divorced were:

Rose M. (Frogst) Neher from Charles E. Neher, both of Granite City. They were married Sept. 22, 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Her former name was restored.

Kenneth Lee Johnson of Maryville from Patricia Ann (Patton) Johnson of Granite City. They were married April 1, 1971. Mental cruelty was charged.

Ruth Ann Planitz from Jerome Joseph Planitz, both of Granite City. They were married March 29, 1965. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother and custody of three children was granted to the father.

Carole Sue (Fea) Kregger of Granite City from Robert David Kregger of Iowa. They were married March 21, 1973. Mental cruelty was charged.

Cheryl Ann (Bennett) De Runtz from Daniel Alexander DeRuntz, both of Granite City.

They were married Dec. 22, 1973. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother.

Sallie Emma (Bono) Fowler from Herbert James Fowler, both of Granite City. They were married Aug. 12, 1967. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother.

Zella Jean (Nash) Rivera from Johnny Ray Rivera, both of Madison. They were married June 12, 1971. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother.

Seeks damages
Joe H. Cosby has filed suit in Madison County Circuit Court seeking $50,000 from the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis.

Cosby alleges that on May 5, 1974, while employed as a switch-tender at the railroad's Madison Yards, he was attempting to operate a switch and was injured when the switch failed to operate properly.

"A WINNER WALKIN' HOME" composers Stan and JoAnne Hitchcock of Burns, Tenn., visited this area Thursday promoting Illinois Democratic Fund country and western concerts. Hitchcock and his wife wrote the ballad and Hitchcock has recorded the song, which tells of Governor Dan Walker's 1971-72 campaign walk through Illinois.

population and population density, topography, climate, labor market, comparative wage levels, existing plants, labor rates.

Edward P. Reiske, executive vice-president of the Chamber, said it will be used primarily in promoting this community area as a good location for business and industry. "It gives us an attractive new tool to use in our overall sales efforts and will supplement our existing promotion pieces," he said.

Preparation of the brochure was a joint effort of the Chamber's industrial development committee, headed by Carl E. Mathias, and Richard H. Dykes, executive director of Illinois State Development. Dykes noted that the brochure is "designed to answer many of the questions ordinarily posed by site-seekers during the course of a location search. Information in the brochure is presented in a straightforward, factual manner and should serve to stimulate further interest."

Along with facts about this area and its suitability for industry and business, the brochure "shows that our area wants new development and is prepared to provide prompt and professional location assistance," Mathias said.

He noted that copies of the brochure are being made available to all firms and organizations which may be of interest in bringing new business operations to the area.

The brochure is the second in a series released this year by the Metro East Area Chamber and members of commerce in its region. A similar publication, describing Wood River Township, was completed earlier.

A third brochure, covering the Alton area, is to be released by the end of this year.

with these developments, the re-elected board member spoke out because he felt the members are giving the false impression that it was a battle of independents against the massive power of the Democratic organization.

Whitsell said he alerted party leaders to the way funds were being distributed but that it was not remedied.

He quoted County Democratic Chairman Walter Simmons as saying, "they have to be in the race to get the commitment supporting the entire Democratic ticket. But the support at precincts in District 26 went to his opponents, Whitsell adds.

He was re-elected with 1,659 votes to 821 and 117 for the two rivals.

BURGLARY ON CLEVELAND
A color television, two lamps and a quantity of liquor, all worth a total of $220, were stolen from the home of John Vasiloff, 1000 Cleveland Blvd., it was reported Saturday. Entry was gained by breaking the rear basement door. An attempt to pry open sliding door to the family room apparently was unsuccessful.

Campaigning

nominating petition blanks from the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens. Petition forms also have been obtained by Edward P. Reiske, executive vice-president of the Chamber.

Lionel Morley, city street superintendent, also has obtained petition blanks and is a candidate for re-election from Stevens' office, where the forms are available in advance of the first city election.

Meanwhile, Aldermen Sam Whittier of the Second Ward and Claude Green of the Fourth Ward have told the Press-Record they will be candidates for re-election.

Other Granite City aldermen whose terms expire in 1975 and who are likely to seek re-election are Clyde Boyd of the Third Ward, Emerald Dawes of the Seventh Ward and Gerald Parmley of the Sixth Ward.

Granite City aldermen whose terms do not expire until 1976 are Steve Basarich of the Fifth Ward, R. E. Robertson of the Fourth, William Dallas of the First, Roy Foster of the Third, Frank Greenwald of the Second, Earl Baker of the Sixth and Ronald Coleman of the Seventh Ward.

Venice aldermen whose terms will end are Thomas Voegel, First Ward, George Mangiaracino, Second Ward, and Oscar King, Fourth Ward. Also to be filled is the post of the late Louis Ratliff, which created a vacancy in the Third Ward.

Holdover members of the City Council do not expire until 1977 are Edward Harry Buente, First Ward; Angelo "Hank" Wasiak, Second Ward; and Ervin, Third Ward; and Tyrone Echols, Fourth Ward.

In Madison, terms expiring in 1975 are those of Mayor Ervin, First Ward; Don Broyles, Second Ward; Mike Sikora, Fourth Ward, and John Ervin, Third Ward. There is a vacancy in the Third Ward.

Council members in Madison who have to run next year are Robert D. Reeves, First Ward; Richard Kismar, Second Ward; Ray Koziel, Third Ward; Christ Costoff, Fourth Ward; and Booker Walton, Fifth Ward.

Floyd Beach, mayor of Pontoon Beach, told the Press-Record he will seek re-election on April 15, the date on which elections also are to be held in Madison and Venice.

The Granite City election will be April 1 under the election law governing cities whose boundaries are co-extensive with those of a township.

Moss was elected two years ago to succeed Otto Kreher, who resigned. The office of city clerk at Pontoon Beach now is held by Mrs. Corinne Kreher, wife of the former mayor.

Pontoon Beach trustees whose posts are subject to election next year are Loren Madison, Marvin Ribbing and Dean Rochester. Ribbing was appointed to the board a year ago to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of John Cole.

Pontoon Beach trustees who will remain in office until 1977 are Donald C. Rea, Raymond Gaudette Jr. and Paul Bennett.

Rochester and Madison have informally indicated they do not, at this time, plan to seek re-election in April.

They are the last two trustees who served on boards headed by the first president of the village board, Thomas Staicoff.

Staicoff resigned in 1972. Since that time, all trustees who served under him have resigned, either during or at the end of their terms, except for Rochester and Madison.

Rochester first was elected in 1967 and has served two full terms. Madison, who was elected in 1971, is completing his first full term.

The filing period for the Granite City election will open Dec. 23 and continue through Jan. 25 with a Feb. 1 withdrawal date.

For the Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach elections, filing will open Jan. 6 and continue through Feb. 10. Withdrawal date will be Feb. 15.

In contrast to previous years, when township elections were held during April, there will be no spring balloting next year. The terms of township supervisors and highway commissioners that would have expired next year were extended by legislative action until 1977 so that all township officials may be elected at the same time every four years, thus eliminating the cost of half of the previous biennial balloting.

TAMPER WITH CARS
A supervisor for Norfolk & Western Railroad reported to police at 5 p.m. Thursday that three persons seen on a railroad car loaded with automobiles in the vicinity of 22nd Street were starting the autos, playing the car radios and driving the vehicles back and forth as far as the tie-down restraints would permit.

2 jailers, 2 prisoners treated after jail fire

Two jailers and a prisoner at the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville suffered smoke inhalation and another inmate received minor burns during a fire in a jail cell the second floor of the jail at 3 a.m. today.

The fire started in the cell of Ernest Baugh, St. Louis, when a cigarette he was smoking had been dropped accidentally on a mattress.

Baugh suffered burns in the fire which developed extensive smoke. He was taken to Wood River Township Hospital and was admitted.

The Edwardsville Fire Department was called and all available police and sheriff's deputy cars were summoned to the jail, in case all cells had to be evacuated.

While firemen were fighting the smoldering fire, a prisoner in another cell, Jimmy O'Neal, St. Louis, was found unconscious. He was treated by an Edwardsville emergency medical team and was taken to the hospital where he was released after treatment for smoke inhalation.

Two jailers were treated after the fire and were released from the hospital. They were Elvin Floyd of 18 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, and Grover Henry, 108 Hare St., Eagle Park Acres.

The fire was quickly extinguished and exhaust fans were used to expel the smoke. The jail did not have to be evacuated, it was reported.

Due to the metal walls, floor and ceiling of the jail cell, the fire was restrained and damaged only the furnishings, a spokesman said.

money," Patcheff said. Mark Jules and Stephanie Clark, members of the Madison High School Student Council, and Kevin Ditch and Joe Young, members of the MHS Student Advisory committee, made a report at the meeting, asserting that MHS Principal Richard Corbin is doing an outstanding job and "really cares" about working with both the students and teachers.

Among problems at the school that the students requested to be looked into and help solve was the feeling that the Student Council did not have enough money to carry out its activities. The students said they feel that the Junior-Senior Prom fund has grown so large they would never use all the money.

It was alleged by the students that monies formerly used for assemblies had, over the last few years, gone into the prom fund. School Board President Chester L. McManaway instructed Patcheff to check into the situation and report back to the board.

A discussion of field trip policies at MHS was then held. McManaway noted that teachers must request permission for field trips far enough in advance to have board approval. Areas such as transportation costs, need for substitute teachers to handle classes, purposes of the trip, etc., were taken into consideration, McManaway said that the board generally approves requests for field trips if the teachers can show the required procedures.

McManaway thanked the students for attending the board meeting and assured them they are welcome at future meetings. He complimented the MHS Student Council and the Student Advisory committee for their work and interest in making MHS a good school.

The board approved hiring of Edna Ervin, Louis and Mrs. Marjorie Thompson as full-time teachers aids, and Mrs. Arletha Lomas on a part-time basis to assist in the Title One kindergarten program and Title One Primary Reading. The board also approved the aid, under Urban-Rural Title One program.

Patcheff reported that the school district has received $100,000 in federal funds representing 50 per cent of its share from the settlement of a Gypsum suit filed in regard to price fixing for concrete materials.

In a letter from William J. Scott, attorney general for Illinois, Scott said the suit should help deter future attempts of price fixing.

Edna Ervin, maintenance supervisor, reported that the parking lot being built next to the board office could be finished within the next 30 days if the weather holds and there is not a severe frost.

A discussion was held on the coal supply for Dunbar School. The board was told that four loads of coal should be purchased and held in reserve as coal strike is not settled. The board instructed Rhoads to keep the coal bins at the school full. This would give the school a 30-day supply of coal in reserve until the strike is settled.

At the request of Casimir S. Krakowicz's civil defense director for the City of Madison, the school board approved purchase of a Civilian Defense weather warning receiver for the board office. The unit cost $160 with 50 per cent being paid by the Madison County Civil Defense.

Superintendent Patcheff showed the board one of four record players that were donated by an individual who wished to remain anonymous. The board approved the paying of October salaries in the amount of $165,589 and bills in the amount of $69,658.

The treasurer's report given by Ray Dziadosz for the period from Oct. 1 to Oct. 31, 1974, was approved. The reports showed a cash and investment balance of $1,184,757 in all funds.

"I met Gov. Walker and his charming wife, Roberta, and became as impressed with them as Stan was."

"Stan and I then finished the song in Springfield (Ill.) and polished it up. I flew back to the kids and our firm while Stan stayed to make final arrangements for the concert," Mrs. Hitchcock concluded.

Hitchcock said, "You know, Joanne and I aren't politically minded people. Our song is just two simple, country pickers' views on the governor."

Hitchcock was raised in another Springfield — Springfield, Mo., area and was a charitable, non-profit organization.

A representative of Columbia Records heard Hitchcock on the radio and invited him to Nashville, Tenn., where he signed a recording contract with Columbia 12 years ago.

Hitchcock now appears on his own syndicated country and western television program, carried on 100 stations and filmed in Nashville.

He is a frequent guest on the "Grand Old Opry," and his latest of seven albums is "Stan Hitchcock Country." He also has a gospel album out now, titled "Softly and Tenderly."

Entertainers at the Belleville concert in addition to Hitchcock will be Del Reeves, Jim Ed Brown, Jean Shepherd, the Jake Hess Sound, Jack Greene, Mickey Gilley, Jeannie Seely, Kenny Serrano, the Sego Brothers with Naomi and the Dixie Diesels.

Cleverdon describes the series of concerts as "an attempt to get away from the 'fat cats.' We want to raise political money by offering people something they will enjoy good country music."

Dr. L. Jim Anthis, 3247 Erin Drive, announced yesterday that he is resigning as pastor of Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road.

Dr. Anthis said he will continue to serve as the church's minister about 60 days.

Dr. Anthis has been minister of Central Christian since February 1971.

GC Steel to light furnace

Granite City Steel was prepared to "blow in" the newly relined "A" blast furnace later today, returning both of the plants blast furnaces to full production. Preparations for lighting the furnace were completed during the weekend.

A plant spokesman said that callbacks of some employees laid off when the furnace was shut down for relining in late September has begun. Some employees were called back last week, he said.

Although the plant began preparations to blow in the furnace last week, a final decision was reserved until today because of the nationwide coal strike. The spokesman announced this morning that the furnace blow-in will proceed today.

Springfield bureau—Campaign fund disclosure justified

The state Supreme Court may have an opportunity to rule on whether Democrats on the State Elections Board were wrong in their narrow definition of the 1974 campaign disclosure law.

But the point is that Chairman Michael Lavelle now has a definitive decision. Judge Paul Vecchio ruled quite directly (and correctly) that the Election Board's 2-1 decision "had no purpose nor logic."

We have said that from the beginning. The decision to limit reporting of campaign receipts and expenditures to committees directly collecting money for candidates, or to candidates themselves, had the effect of subverting the law. It allowed broad-brush committees—such as the United Republican Fund or the Illinois Democratic Fund—to be used as a method of avoiding the disclosure features of the 1974 act.

We certainly agree with Senate President William C. Harris that the circuit court decision was a "victory for all who fought a meaningful disclosure law."

We are less certain on whether the decision should be appealed. Probably it should—if only to get a judgment from the state's highest court.

But, meantime, the board has been ordered to quit trying to write rules that take all the starch out of the disclosure law—and candidates should take note.

Chairman Lavelle, a Chicago Democrat, has said he will appeal the decision. We hope this is not simply another delaying tactic in an effort to avoid application of the law to next spring's municipal election—particularly in Chicago. We have chastised Lavelle for advising political committees on how to avoid the law under the board's old interpretation.

Now we urge him and other members of the board to advise political committees on how to comply with the law. Regardless of the prospect of appeal, it would be prudent for all candidates for public office at the state or legislative level to keep complete reports of their financial transactions.

If the Supreme Court is to rule on the case, we urge the highest court to act quickly. We feel certain that the court will support the position that the law applies broadly.

Clearly, the people of Illinois through their legislature have recognized the need for disclosure laws in political campaigns from now on.

Big cut in paperwork on vehicle licensing in Illinois

It is well-known that the cost of government rises in proportion to any increase in paperwork. The reverse is also true.

For this reason Illinois taxpayers will welcome the latest move by Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett to reduce the blizzard of paperwork that has traditionally marked the licensing and certification of motor vehicles.

Up to now an astonishing 24 forms have been needed for registering the various types of vehicles ranging from cars and trucks to motorcycles and trailers. Now these are being reduced to two. License plates and titles have been handled separately by about 200 employees in the titles division and 380 in registration.

But now one set of employees will process both.

With about six million license plate registrations and three million new titles a year being processed by the secretary's office, the savings should prove substantial.

Not only this, but Howlett said the new system will also mean that plates and titles will be received much sooner by the vehicle owner. This combination of lower cost and improved service to the public is an excellent example of good administration.

Executive mansion the wrong place for fund raising

Gov. Daniel Walker's political friends were more than indiscreet in throwing a $1,000-a-plate dinner at the Executive Mansion. They were apparently setting a precedent that the home owned by the people of Illinois could properly be used for blatantly political fundraising.

That is improper—and apparently unprecedented. We understand the governor's desire to top off his fund for the November general election, and perhaps for future elections, with a $100,000 war chest.

But the Executive Mansion is not the governor's personal house, any more than the White House is the president's. The governor, any governor, is only a temporary occupant of that home. And it is patently unfair and possibly illegal to use it as a centerpiece in raising funds for political purposes.

The home has been used, and rightly so, for lunches and dinners whose purpose was to raise funds for charity. But the Illinois Democratic Fund isn't a charity. Far from it. The IDF, which right now is paying the salary of Walker's chief political operative, Victor de Grazia, is purely and simply the fund-raising arm for Gov. Walker.

We are distressed that at least one of the celebrities was invited with the impression he was attending a charity affair. Golfer Bobby Nichols was perturbed, as well he might have been.

However, in fairness, it should be noted that a letter to Nichols from Executive Director David Cleveland of the sponsoring Illinois Democratic Fund leaves little doubt about the occasion without going into detail. The letter expresses the governor's delight in learning Nichols had accepted the invitation for "the Illinois Democratic Fund Governor's Day activities..." It does not mention that it is a political fund raising specifically, although that is clearly the implication.

With this unfortunate experience behind us, we now urge Gov. Walker to state publicly that the Executive Mansion under his administration won't be used for political fund raising. There is simply something about such a use that leaves a bad public impression.

And we totally disagree with IDF Executive Director David Cleveland, who said it was "no big deal." It is too big a deal. And this is one big deal we can do without in the future.

Gov. Walker and his friends should rent their own hall—not use the people's.

Rails, utilities being denied the revenue to maintain good service

By JOHN P. FISHWICK

President
Norfolk and Western Railway Company

With the noticeable trend toward nationalization of regulated industries in the United States, there is substantial doubt whether our political institutions can make the hard decisions necessary to change that trend.

The railroad industry and electric utilities are among the leading candidates for nationalization.

If we expect to let this trend continue, we must be prepared to live with the consequences. If we destroy the equity and credit of our regulated industries, we must be prepared to find that they are no longer able to maintain their properties and provide service.

The hard fact of the matter is that, if the public wants to have good and adequate service from its regulated industries, it must be prepared to ask, and, in fact, insist—that those regulated industries make a profit.

The public must be prepared to ask that those regulated be placed in a position to repay their debts and to be able to borrow money.

The danger in hacking away at the free market system is that the ability to produce may be damaged.

It may not be possible to fix the price of Arab oil, but it is possible to set the price of electricity. It is not feasible to fix the price of food, but we do have a mechanism to set the rate a company that moves the food.

As a result, we are risking damage to the companies that make our lives comfortable.

While the public may complain about efforts of electric power companies to get higher rates, the sure way to get lights to go on when we flip the switch.

Every business faces the need to refurbish its plant and equipment and to expand.

Funds can be made available only from the sale of additional shares of equity capital, borrowing, or from earnings that can be reinvested.

In today's investment climate, stock sales are not feasible. Borrowing costs are at historic highs. And earnings, especially in railroads and utilities, are inadequate.

The upshot is that now the utilities are winding down their plans for new construction, a decision many railroads had to make more than a decade ago.

This seems likely to become an on-going tragedy.

The stockholder, whose money has established the business and sustained the jobs that business provides is last in line for any consideration.

Society has turned its back on those who otherwise would provide the risk capital so badly needed.

All freedoms are inextricably linked, and the abolition of a free market would endanger other freedoms.

We cannot have a great government intrusion into our economic life and expect that government to remain forever the sidelines in freedom of speech, freedom of the press and even freedom of religion.

Our society, our institutions and the ideas which sustain them are all of a piece, indivisible. We ignore that truth at our deadly peril.

Finally, if these trends continue where equity is eroded for social or political purposes—and stockholders' capital and incentive are drained away—there can be only a bleak future for the private enterprise system.

But would be less than frank if I did not say that our present course is in that direction.

Republicans hoping for 1976 comeback

By KEN WATSON

Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

Illinois Republicans appear to be reopening a comeback trail last used in years ago after the anti-Goldwater Democratic landslide.

That year not only saw Democratic President Lyndon Johnson carry Illinois by 89,897 votes over U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater, but also saw Democrats sweep all five statewide offices in a landslide.

That year the GOP came out of its decade-long slumber and demoralized as it is today. But two years later the Republicans were winners, capturing five of six statewide offices, including a U.S. Senate seat and a superintendent of public instruction post—both held by Democrats at the time.

Can the 1964 to 1966 comeback story be repeated for the 1976 campaign?

Some GOP leaders are hopeful that it can and have embarked on a comeback effort that already has some similarities with that of a decade ago.

These were reflected in the comments that followed last week's Republican leadership conference at Chicago, convened by U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy.

Ten years ago, Percy, who had come within a respectable 179,299 votes of beating incumbent Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner while all the other Republican state candidates were being clobbered, was the catalyst around which the party united and began moving toward triumph two years later.

"This time it appears that Atty. Gen. William H. Scott, considered by many as a personal rival to Percy for the party's titular leadership, may be the catalyst around which unity once again may be forged."

The two seem to be making a genuine effort to set aside any personal differences and work together to rebuild the shattered party.

Once again, it looks like Scott

There has been some intraparty grumbling about Scott in recent weeks, but it does not appear to have regained party popularity and could expect a trouble-free primary, plus strong financial and other support for the run against Walker.

Some major Republicans are known to feel that Scott was lax in the 1974 campaign and did not campaign as hard as he should have for Republican candidates.

However, the Scott forces have compiled a list of apparent mistakes that challenges his criticism. They contend it shows he worked especially hard for GOP legislative and local-level candidates.

Scott, who was 48 this month, would be running for only a two-year term as governor, since the provision in the new State Constitution transferring the governor election to the off-year goes into effect in 1976. Four-year terms will be resumed in 1978. But this is not expected to be a serious deterrent.

There is some speculation that Scott eventually is interested in a federal judgeship. Others believe he has national aspirations, including the White House itself.

A win over Walker and reelection as governor in 1978 could conceivably elevate him to national attention.

A more important role also appears likely in 1976 for Comptroller George W. Lindberg, 41, who is being credited even by Democrats with doing an outstanding job as the state's first comptroller.

He might be slated as a Scott successor for attorney general. Republican leaders realize that Gov. Walker will be tough to beat in 1976.

But they expect their cause to be aided by an anticipated bitter Democratic split between Walker forces and those of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The GOP strategy for the next two years is to keep its own political base calm and steady, while watching and waiting for the Democrats to stage their own civil war.

I have questions in regard to this project which I feel the citizens of Granite City also would like answered.

The City has owned over six acres of ground for approximately three years. This property was purchased for additional library facilities and an additional fire station to replace the Namski fire station.

Mayor Schuler and Alderman Parmley, Dawes and Boyd were more aware of the City owning this property and the two-year period for which it was purchased than most of the City Council, but all members were aware of this as early as June

The FORUM

Chickens in city creating nuisance

To the Editor:

I would like to bring to you and the citizens of our community's attention the lack of controls on the raising and keeping of livestock or farm animals within the city limits.

An attempt to establish such an ordinance by the City Council failed.

I am told there was opposition at the time by former Mayor Partney, who I understand was keeping horses in the city limits. Also, there was lack of concern of the general public.

Most people in our town are not bothered by the lack of controls.

However, there are some of us who are being subjected to many problems by the keeping of livestock in the city.

Recently, a neighbor of mine brought about 150 chickens into town, and housed them in a two-car garage which is about five feet from the fence separating our yards.

The neighbor didn't feed or care for these chickens properly.

Rather, he would allow them to run loose in his yard, which is fenced in, but seldom would close gates, therefore letting his chickens get into other people's yards to scratch for food.

They "ro" up mine and others' flower and vegetable gardens.

Complaints to the city inpector and humane office did little good, since they are powerless to act without any specific ordinance controlling livestock in the city limits.

Although they informed me they have been asking City Hall for such an ordinance because of all the complaints along this line, none has been forthcoming.

I would like to thank the city inspector and humane office for what help they have given me in this regard.

At this time, I would ask all of our citizens to contact their aldermen, urging the enactment of an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of livestock in the city.

Unless this is done, I and many others like myself will have to contend with living next door to a "barnyard" and all of the resulting damage caused by loose animals.

Also, there are odors, rats, flies, unsightliness, and unsanitary conditions such as a barnyard causes.

I would request that you make a survey of the people, city officials and officers of our community to determine the problems caused by lack of controls, and the desirability of enacting such an ordinance.

Holidays spotlight help for needy

To the Editor:

If Christmas could last all year along, perhaps the solutions could catch up with the ever-increasing needs and problems of human beings.

The desperate cannot wait for miracles. That is why the word "desperate" is in the dictionary.

The race to the fittest, survival of the strongest—these long appeared to be the prevailing American philosophy.

In contrast, renowned anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead stated recently that our culture must acutely develop "concern for those who are young or weak, old or poor."

When asked where to begin meeting all the social needs, she replied without hesitation: "You have to begin everywhere at once."

"Everywhere and at once" is precisely the way The Salvation Army takes action to deal with human needs and crisis situations.

The Salvation Army reaches out to the needs of our community in many ways—serving families overwhelmed by spiritual, economic and emotional problems with ready, practical, professional help.

And people are helped to grow in body and spirit through social activities, community service, recreation, youth programs and spiritual emphasis.

You see a lot of The Salvation Army at this season, but they are working quietly to serve this community 365 days a year.

Remember: Christmas is a day; the spirit is forever.

Children protected from stray dogs

To the Editor:

I'm writing in response to the Nov. 14 letter about the dogcatchers of Granite City.

"Confused procedures at dog pound" I live in West Granite, where there are plenty of dogs roaming the streets.

I have two small children who go to school. And I praise the Lord for these dogcatchers for the swell job they do in order to keep our children safe from stray dogs.

Although most people don't know it, if it weren't for these dogcatchers, a lot of shots would have to take rabies people.

This is because when a person is bitten by a dog, these men spend all their time trying to locate the dog and its owner.

They do this to find out if the dog has had shots in order to keep the person from having to take them.

And I can tell you from experience that there is nothing more painful than those rabies shots.

I also know that they keep a dog for so many days before they even let it out of the pound. I know that they adopt one after it's been there for so many days.

I know this to be a fact because I adopted one. I make sure her tags are on her at all times.

If other people would also do this, then the dog catcher could easily notify the owners that their dog has been picked up.

Instead of degrading these fine men, I would like to praise them very highly.

Thank you, dogcatchers, for doing your job and keeping my children and many, many other children safe.

I thank the Lord each day. Keep up the good work.

Site available for a new fire station

To the Editor:

An additional Granite City fire station is being planned.

I have questions in regard to this project which I feel the citizens of Granite City also would like answered.

The City has owned over six acres of ground for approximately three years. This property was purchased for additional library facilities and an additional fire station to replace the Namski fire station.

Mayor Schuler and Alderman Parmley, Dawes and Boyd were more aware of the City owning this property and the two-year period for which it was purchased than most of the City Council, but all members were aware of this as early as June 1973, well before the City Council purchased the additional site.

The location of these six acres is on Washburn Avenue between Jones Road and St. Clair Avenue.

This location was approved by the fire insurance people as a desirable location for the Namski fire station prior to its purchase.

The only requirement was that a fire lane be run into St. Clair Avenue, estimated at a minimum cost.

This property is only approximately six blocks from the additional property purchased for $12,000, an additional cost to the taxpayer as well as, now, additional money to defend a suit by Granite City taxpayers who do not want the fire station adjacent to their property.

So, I ask the mayor and City Council, why did we waste the taxpayers' money by buying additional land not needed, for $12,000, for a site just a few blocks away from six acres of land already owned and paid for by the city?

I may as well make this a double question. I make sure her tags are on her at all times.

I would like to ask the Granite City Library Board why they have done nothing about proceeding with building the additional facility in the east of our growing and, I hope, improving city.

A. No. Campaign expenses of a candidate for any office are not deductible. Registration fees for primary elections are also not deductible, even for incumbents seeking to remain in office.

Skit highlights potluck dinner

An entertaining skit was presented by six members of the Granite City Junior Service Club at the club's semi-annual potluck dinner last week.

The playlets, a take-off from Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, was given by Flora Mae Lanning, Donna Atkins, Janice Staats, Gail McFarland, Pam Titwirth and Carolyn Thornburg. Mrs. Rita Overath served as the narrator.

Mrs. Thornburg, president, presided at the business session held in the Civil Defense Building. Reports were given by Mrs. Marilyn Bodnam and Mrs. Louis Wade.

Guests introduced were Mrs. Jean Ann Vrenick and Mrs. Betty Jo Koser, club sponsors; Mrs. Bernice Fitzpatrick, an inactive member and Mrs. Suzanne Brooks and Mrs. Karen Melton, new probationary members.

The club's charity program was reviewed by Mrs. Mary Lou Richardson and Miss Juanita Bell announced the Thanksgiving baskets will be delivered this week.

Other club events announced were a Christmas dinner at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 9 at the Time and the Tiger in St. Louis County, and a Yule party for residents of the Colonnade on Dec. 16, with caroling and an appearance by Santa.

Members were invited to attend a social night hosted by the club sponsors on Dec. 12 in the Vrenick home.

Mrs. Louise Wade won a homemade article donated by Mrs. Gail McFarland.

The groom chose his bride, Pete Babic, 1615 Fourth St., Madison, was united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony on Nov. 16 at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church.

Nuptial selections, including The Lord's Prayer, "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother," "Sunrise, Sunset" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," were played by organist James Havranek.

The Rev. Sylvester Micek officiated at the double ring service at 2 o'clock. The altar was adorned with bouquets of red, pink, white, yellow and purple blossoms interspersed with greenery.

Escorted by her father, the former Miss McQuay wore a full length gown of bridal satin. Her melody length veil of illusion was edged with lace and secured to a lace petal headpiece.

The gown's bodice was lavishly accented with delicate lace. Lace formed the high neckline and capped the full sleeves.

A rehearsal dinner was served by the groom's parents at their home to the wedding party and their families.

Both young people graduated from Madison High School. The former Miss McQuay is employed at the Granite City office of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The groom recently completed 18 months service with the U.S. Army in Berlin, Germany. He now works at Schermer's Market in Madison.

The couple is residing in Madison following a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla.

Mr., Mrs. Guy Prewett mark 60th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Prewett, 1508 Second St., Madison, received 167 guests at a reception given in observance of their 60th wedding anniversary at the Venice Recreation Center.

Hostesses for the affair were Miss Nora Rogers and Mrs. Caddie Prewett, sisters of Mrs. Prewett.

The honorees were married on Oct. 23, 1914, in Madison and have resided there since their wedding.

A satin covered gift table was centered with an arrangement of tall flowers with tall gold tapers in matching holders of either side.

The hostesses served a buffet luncheon from a table holding a decorated tiered wedding cake.

Music during the afternoon was furnished by the Madison Senior Citizens Kitchen Band.

Pilgrims is Pack 13 theme

An original Thanksgiving prayer was given by members of Den 1 to open the Pack 13 meeting Thursday night in the St. Elizabeth School cafeteria. Mrs. Mary Ann O'Leary's Den 2 performed a Pilgrim playlet and Den 3, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Briley, directed a "Pilgrim" game.

Another skit entitled "Hardships of a Pioneer" was presented by Den 1, led by Mrs. Gloria Heintz and assisted by her daughter, Ann Heintz. Mrs. Darlene Smith served as the narrator.

Webelos Rich Moore, Leroy Hibbs and Tom Stegemeyer discussed and gave a demonstration on how to build bird houses, and also displayed a completed "house."

Cubmaster Ed Heintz presented the following awards: Bobcat to Eric and David Goff; Wolf badge to Tommy Adamitis; Wolf badge and gold arrow to Dennis Williams; Bear badge to Steve Trillinger.

Richard Moore, Webelos leader, awarded the following badges to Webelos: David Becherer, traveler, sportsman and craftsman; Jeff Gibbs, Dan Smith and Tom Stegemeyer, traveler, citizen and craftsman; Scott Greathouse, Leroy Hibbs, Mike Niebur, Kenny Portel, traveler, artist and craftsman.

The Traveling Cubby award for the most parents attending was presented by Mrs. Smith to Den 1.

Den 2 led the closing song and refreshments were served by Den 3.

THE SCHERMER BULLETIN

The big Thanksgiving Holiday is almost here and we had a tremendous week last week. We believe that this is the first Thanksgiving that we will have to be buying extra turkeys at the last minute.

Our sale continues thru Wednesday night and we think we will have everything for everybody who for various reasons have to shop "late."

On behalf of all the 62 Schermers people who try very hard to make Schermers the store you expect it to be, we wish you all the very nicest Holiday possible.

Oppose state control over building permits

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association last week urged the Illinois Pollution Control Board to reject regulations as presently proposed by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency dealing with "indirect sources" of air pollution, including many types of new construction projects.

Major alleged drawbacks of the proposal were cited as:
1. The rules would apply statewide regardless of air quality; U.S. EPA guidelines concentrate on urban areas.
2. The proposal would require a state permit in addition to all local building permits, even for construction of a 500-car parking facility. The U.S. EPA guideline would not require a permit for such a facility.

3. IEPA rules would place growth decisions in the hands of IEPA, rather than with local governmental officials and private builders.
According to IMA President O'Neill V. Bergen, "The IEPA has provided no justification for making the Illinois rules more stringent than required by federal regulations."
"We urge the board to require IEPA to prove that these potentially costly rules are technically feasible and economically reasonable, factors required by state law."

Pulaski again to lead Coast Guard Auxiliary

Flotilla 76 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary held its monthly session last week at Hide-a-Way Harbor, Portage Des Sioux, Mo. The annual election was held and Frank L. Pulaski of Granite City was re-elected as commander for 1975. Francis Aldwin, Florissant, Mo., was elected vice-commander. The Flotilla 76 area encompasses portions of Illinois and Missouri. The Coast Guard Auxiliary primary programs include public education for safe boating and courtesy motorboat examinations.

"Public education is vital in the national boating safety effort to have an informed and knowledgeable boating public. Education is the best approach to preventing accidents," Pulaski commented.
"The courtesy examination is a free service provided to owners or operators of privately-owned recreational motorboats. Purpose of this program is to foster wider compliance with federal motorboat laws and safe boating practice through the cooperation of all pleasure boat owners.

"It is a courtesy examination given at the request of the boat owner to determine if his boat is in compliance with federal requirements.
"If he meets the additional safety requirements of the Auxiliary, the boat owner is awarded the CME decal.
"Recent boating statistics have shown that over half of the accidents occur to boats under 15 feet in length and to persons

BREAK INTO HOUSE
Burglars kicked in a rear door at the home of Chester Eggle, 2609 Center St., "ransacked the bedrooms and stole a portable television, clock radio and all drugs, including nerve pills, from the medicine cabinet, the householder reported at 10 p.m. Thursday.
"This is one reason why free safe boating courses are given by the Coast Guard Auxiliary throughout the year to boat owners and scouts."

VW rolls over, driver charged
Police said a VW auto operated by David L. Lofink, 2624 Highway 67, traveling south on Franklin Avenue at 9:50 p.m. Thursday, went off the road when the driver tried to make a left turn at Richmond Avenue, rolled over for one complete turn and landed upright on the opposite corner of the intersection.
Lofink reportedly was uninjured. He was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

REV. L. L. COLLINS

Thanksgiving at Bethel Chapel

Special Thanksgiving Services at Bethel Chapel Pentecostal Church, 25th and Ohio streets, will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, according to the pastor, the Rev. Clifton Galther.

Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday and all day Thursday at 10 a.m., 2 and 7 p.m.

The annual service was started many years ago by the late Rev. Ralph Cook, founder of Bethel Chapel.

Various guest ministers will speak at the services including the Rev. L. L. Collins of Merriam, Kan., who will be in charge of the evening worship hour.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be served at noon on Thursday at the church, for the congregation attending the services, Rev. Galther said.

Pontoon Beach & Stallings

MRS. LUCILLE MARTIN
4010 Breckenridge Lane
931-0731

Mrs. Helen Burgess of Pontoon Plaza has returned from Ellingham, Ill., where she visited her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pritchard.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Falter Sr. have returned from Nashville, Tenn., where they were guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hopmann.

Mrs. Nellie Hood and Mrs. Mildred Burke of Arcadia have returned to their homes. They were here to attend the funeral of Roger Martin, their brother-in-law and uncle.

FELLOWSHIP GATHERING
Paul and Izetta Stayduhar entertained with a fellowship hour in their home following a viewing of the Billy Graham movie, "Time to Run," at the Washington Theater.

Attending were Misses Tammy Jones, Debbie Harvey, Barbara Harvey, JoAnn Sturdivant, Susan Flowers, Laura Lee Flowers, Becky Falter, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harvey, Mrs. Mary Sturdivant, Mrs. Helen Burgess, Mr. and Mrs. James Flowers, John Sturdivant and Darrell Carter of the Pontoon Baptist Church.

YOUTH RALLY HERE
The Pontoon Beach Church of Christ hosted the second of a series of regional youth rallies last week, with 150 in attendance from area Christian churches and Churches of Christ. The Bethany boys' quartet from Montgomery, Ind., presented a gospel message in song. The afternoon closed with a fellowship hour, refreshments being provided by the host church after the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sullivan of Doniphan, Mo., were here last week to attend the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Fleece Patterson.

Past Matrons plan Christmas party

Past Matrons of New Hope Chapter 432, Order of Eastern Star, met last week for dinner at Petri's Restaurant. The hostesses were Mrs. Beas Weiss and Mrs. Gertrude Lowry.

Mrs. Donna Woodard, president, led a discussion on a Christmas party at the Sunset Hill Holiday Inn next month. Games were directed by the hostesses and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lou Anderson, Mrs. Louise Cook, Mrs. Thelma Johnson and Marilyn Whitworth.

Others attending were Mesdames Marie Roekstad, Carol Hildebrand, Roberta Lester, Evelyn Harris, Estella McBrien and a guest, Mrs. Alene George.

Butter Basted Turkeys

What is a BUTTER BASTED TURKEY?
As the turkey roasts, the creamy butter basting mixture, which has been added, mingles with the natural juices inside this delicious Grade "A" turkey and bubbles through the skin to self-baste the outside of the bird.

VHS student council week

Venice High School students will participate in Student Council week activities Dec. 2-7. It was announced by Miss Mary Donna Scaturro, advisor to the Student Council and a member of the Title VII teaching staff. The week's activities are being jointly sponsored by the Student Council and the Title VII Advisory Committee.

Cassandra Jones and Clara Houls, chairmen of the first day's activities, have announced that Monday, Dec. 2, will be Hat and Sucker Day. Students are encouraged to wear their favorite hats and to bring suckers to eat throughout the day in most of their classes. Tuesday, Dec. 3, will be Bum Day, according to Algie Crawford and Leonard Gardner. This is the day to satisfy that longing to dress like a bum. After being a "bum" for a day, it is hoped that Wednesday, Dec. 4, will find everyone dressed in his "Sunday best." Carolyn Richmond and Jayne McClelland have announced that along with being Dress-Up Day, Wednesday also will be Student Teacher Day.

Most classes will elect a member of the class to be their student teacher. The entire high school student body will meet in the gym on Wednesday at 2:05 p.m. with Dr. David Valley, a communications specialist from SIUE as an introduction to a workshop to be held Jan. 24, which will involve the students, the staff, and persons from the community.

The topic under discussion both days will be "Interpersonal Relations." Members of the 7th and 8th grades will be meeting with Dr. Valley at 1 p.m. the same day. Representing these grades on the Student Advisory Committee are Kerry Roberts, Terrance Arnold, Gentle Lee Rupert, and Sabrina White. Immediately after school on Wednesday, there will be a "slave" auction in preparation for the Thursday Slave Day, according to Tami Eck and Gloria Johnson. All members of the Student Council will be placed on the auction block with teachers and school personnel bidding for their services. In the past some "experienced" slaves have brought as much as $2 to $3, while the "inexperienced" slaves are "sold" at reduced rates.

All money collected goes into the council's treasury and the "slave" is the property of the purchaser for all day Thursday. Quite often, the dirtier the job to be done, the more value placed on the slave. In the past slaves have cleaned lockers, teachers' offices, prepared materials for the school nurse, moved books and dusted shelves, typed examinations, prepared dittos for class projects, polished trophies, and other widely varied jobs.

Juniors — Pawnee Riggs and Peggy Pier — and seniors — Sandra Sanders, Jeff Corrie, and Mike Logan — are the committee in charge of School Spirit Day which is scheduled Friday, Dec. 6. It is hoped that all students will dress in the school colors of red and white. Committee members will decorate a "spirit hall" (the main corridor of the first floor of the high school) with posters and signs of encouragement for the basketball team which will make its first home appearance in a game against Madison High at 4 p.m. A pep rally is scheduled for part of the last period of the school day.

To wind up the week's activities, a majority of the Student Council members will attend the Kaskaskia District Student Council Convention which will be held at Southwestern High School in Piasa on Saturday, Dec. 7. The convention program runs from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. This year's officers of the Student Council are president, Mike Logan; vice president, Tami Eck; secretary, Sandra Sanders; treasurer, Jeff Corrie; and parliamentarian, Carolyn Richmond.

School closing for Thanksgiving

The Thanksgiving holiday weekend for Quad-City students in both the public and parochial schools will begin at the close of the school session on Wednesday. Regular school hours will be resumed on Monday, Dec. 2.

DeMolays name "Sweetheart"

Lisa Smith was crowned the 1974-75 DeMolay Sweetheart by the retiring sweetheart, Kathy Parmley, during the coronation dance following the regular meeting of the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at the Masonic Temple, last week. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith, 2023 Clark Ave., and attends Granite City High School South. Miss Smith, who also is junior princess-elect of Bethel 43, Order of Job's Daughters, was escorted by Dennis Hahn. Also participating in the ceremony were Joy Pope, first attendant, escorted by Mark Swigert, and Sandy Baker, second attendant, escorted by Bill Cochran.

The retiring chapter sweetheart and past Illinois DeMolay Sweetheart, Kathy Parmley, was escorted by John Young. Dave Epping, master councilor, served as master of ceremonies. Music was furnished by the "Purple Knights" and refreshments were served by the DeMolay Mothers Club. Dave Epping presided at the coronation dance and reported the chapter will hold an initiation for new members on Dec. 17. Petitions of new members are to be in by Dec. 3 to be considered for this class. Gifts for the children at Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children are to be brought to the Dec. 17 meeting. It was announced that the Granite City Court of Chevaliers held its annual observance at Charlie's Restaurant on Nov. 8, a date Chevaliers across the world from the International Order of DeMolay observe each year. The Chevalier Degree, an honorary degree bestowed by the International Supreme Council, is a citation for marked DeMolay activity and labor. In attendance were Hiram B. Ables, Charles E. Hilleman Jr., Ellis Hackney Jr., John L. Hutchings, Robert E. Maxwell, Donald Partney, Dale Schindewolf and Joseph L. Vaughn.

Alternative education under study in Madison

The Madison Board of Education heard a report at its Thursday night meeting on educational alternative options in public education from Wade E. James, assistant superintendent of schools.

James recently returned from a conference on alternative education at Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich. "Current estimates are that there are more than 3,000 elementary and secondary alternative programs now, and it is believed that by 1976 there will be close to 20,000," James said.

James stated that building self-image is an important part of alternative education programs for a disruptive child. "In Philadelphia, the Parkway program is a school without walls that makes use of community resources and Philadelphia has more than 50 programs designed to help salvage the disruptive student basically through the improvement of his self-image and the academic basics," James noted.

"The Open school concept is organized around learning activities within a classroom or within a school building. The St. Paul Open school and the Brown School in Louisville are examples. Learning centers are oriented toward special interest areas. Drop-out, drop-in schools are for youngsters who have dropped out of school or are potential drop-outs, and sometimes the educational program is combined with a community-living center," he said. "There also are Free Schools, Freedom Schools, Career

"Current estimates are that there are more than 3,000 elementary and secondary alternative programs now, and it is believed that by 1978 there will be close to 20,000," James said.

"Drop-out, drop-in schools are for youngsters, who have dropped out of school or are potential drop-outs, and sometimes the educational program is combined with a community-living center," he said.

"There also are Free Schools, Freedom Schools, Career

Schools, Survival Schools, Special Need Schools and Mini-Schools.

"Quincy, Ill., has its own mini-school concept as teachers and students in grades seven through 12 have been organized into a number of alternative or optional programs," James reported.

"Optional programs vary throughout the world but do share some general features such as: voluntary program (staff, parents, students) and involvement of teachers, students and parents in planning, running, evaluating and in decision making. They are locally developed, small in size, have low enrollments, and develop self-image.

"They stress basic computational and communication skills and provide situations that foster and nourish individual talents."

"The optional programs must meet district requirements for accreditation, attendance and graduation, but if the programs do not meet students needs and program objectives, the alternative school will not survive," James added.

"To the three R's we now have added the three B's: being, becoming and belonging," James concluded.

James, under the direction of the board is investigating possible alternative education plans for the students in the Madison District that are having problems with conventional school.

'Fantasticks' being repeated

Masquers, Inc., will give repeat performances of "The Fantasticks" on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Palms Northgate Restaurant, 1497 Vandalla St., Collinsville.

The admission price of $6 includes a buffet dinner to be served from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. and the show, which will commence at 8 p.m. High schools student admission price is $5.

Reservations are required and may be placed by calling Palms Northgate, 344-7300. The success of the two previously scheduled performances of the Masquers' first dinner-theater presentation led the community theater group to reschedule the additional performances of the play.

Earlier performances played to a full house and some theatergoers had to be turned away when all the seats had been sold.

After the buffet meal, the audience settled back to listen to the story of young lovers, Louisa and Matt, played by Marti Joachimschaler of Collinsville and Brian Chastain of Granite City.

El Gallo, narrator and antagonist, was played by Frank Joachimschaler. He led the audience through the story of naive, disillusionment and discovery of the true meaning of love.

Joe Magro of Cottage Hills and Dick Peitz of Collinsville played the parts of Louisa and Belmont, the fathers of Louisa and Matt. Their almost vaudevilian song and dance routine was one of the highlights of the play.

Jim Fensterman of Alton and Larry Libby of Granite City also contributed to the lighter moments through portrayals of Mortimer and Henry, actors hired by the fathers to stage an abduction of Louisa so that Matt could rescue her and be her hero.

Vicki Yodis of Granite City played the part of the mute stagehand who, through vivid facial expressions, followed the action of the play with the same laughter and tears as the audience.

"The Fantasticks" includes such tunes as "Try to Remember (A Kind of September)," "Soon It's Gonna Rain" and "Beyond That Road." Many of the Masquers in the production hold degrees in theater; some have also performed professionally. The Masquers' production is directed by Al Erickson of University City, and choreographed by Marti Joachimschaler.

County economy measures urged

A freeze on employee hiring and a limit on salaries paid appointed officials are among belt-tightening procedures recommended to the Madison County Board last week by the board's Finance committee in presenting the county's new 1974-75 budget for approval.

The board approved a new budget of $12,367,732 and a tax levy of $5.789-528.

Largest tax levy extension among the separate accounts is $850,000 for the Municipal Retirement Fund. The levy extends $828,000 for the county highway fund and $627,218 for the community mental health account.

Other major items are $336,580 for the supervisor of assessments, $280,000 for the federal matching aid fund (for highway purposes), $287,000 in the county bridge fund and $100,000 for erection expenses. The levy projects a tax rate of 10 cents (maximum allowable) for the general fund. The rate is projected at 8.5 cents for community mental health purposes, 8.6 cents for the county highway fund and 3.5 cents for the supervisor of assessments account.

A statement by the Finance Committee, headed by Board Member J. J. Gramlich of Highland, accompanied the budget document, noting that preparation of the budget was made in an "adverse period" of inflated costs, reduced property values and tax rate limitations.

The statement noted that this budget is drawn in a period of negative financial conditions affecting every segment of our society, either profitably or adversely. Geographically, and numerically the largest portion of our great county is in the "adverse category."

We, the representatives of our Madison County government, find our environs seriously afflicted by these conditions.

Specifically, to recall some of the problem areas of the immediate past, the present and the future:

1. The reduction of our assessed valuation through loss of personal property taxes and the Homestead Act, plus the loss of collection fees and the partial loss of inheritance tax dollars.

2. The high inflation has great impact on major budget items, food, gasoline, oil products, (related materials), electricity, water, telephone, postage, mileage and automotive equipment cost increases. We also are paying inflated costs for most all services contracted.

3. There exists several areas which should have been faced up to in years past. They are the inadequate space for government operations and the antiquated equipment or structures we find ourselves coping with. (These problems are being faced head on by the present board and solutions brought forth.)

4. Our rate limitation of 10 cents, for the general county revenue fund. (This has been so for about 12 years of rapidly changing demands and situations.)

5. High unemployment affecting economic stimuli of county. Our county board has attempted to take advantage of every federal grant money we could attract with reasonable selectiveness, so that when the federal money ran out, we would not be shackled with continuing costs as a burden to our limited revenues.

Better communications, understanding, better relationships, exists within the county board and its committees. The same is true of the elected officials and of the judiciary. In short, our county government entotal is cooperating, and coordinating its business in a progressive direction toward continued improved fiscal management of the taxpayers dollars.

For fiscal 1974 this county board approved a deficit budget. Through fiscally responsible actions, recommendations, policies, control, the foregoing cooperation of total county government, and lack of disaster by the grace of almighty God we will be able to finish fiscal 1974 in the black.

It is always a monumental task to attempt to keep the county tax rate as close as humanly possible to the previous year.

We are among the very, very few governmental entities in the present day still operating in the black at the lowest possible tax rate to its citizens.

The 1975 budget reflects an anticipated deficit as did the 1974 budget. Control over the 1975 fiscal year must be effective because of the adverse conditions cited. Simply stated, money is much tighter than in 1974 because of the minimal increase in revenue and large inflated projected expenses.

For guidelines of future board action, we offer the following recommendations for your serious consideration:

1. The necessity of the continued cooperation and coordination of our total county government.

2. As always, attempt to cut costs with improved and innovative administrative procedures.

3. Most urgent to restate the hiring freeze, this time for two reasons:

A. As before, the coming sophistication of data processing will eventually make some jobs obsolete. Through attrition reduce the working force before we are faced with large numbers of layoffs.

B. Minimal increase in revenue will not continue to support further hiring. (Take advantage of manpower program as long as it exists and only if necessary.)

4. Recommend that we continue to convert any contractual service into "a do it ourself program" whenever possible.

5. Recommend that the personnel committee establish a reasonable salary limit for appointed officials and to present this to the board for approval.

6. We must take every opportunity to urge our state representatives to give us relief through the General Assembly.

In closing we wish to thank all officials for their promptness in submitting their budget requests along with their fiscal responsibility in presenting realistic planning for the coming year.

We have had much help in bringing the budget to this point and we appreciate this occurrence. We need much help during the fiscal year to end once again in the black and we are optimistic enough to believe this will happen. Then every citizen of Madison County will benefit.

Vadalabene honored

Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene has been awarded a Merit Award from the Illinois Association of Superintendents, Educational Service Regions "for unselfish, distinguished service and continuing interest in improving public education in Illinois."

The award was presented to the senator by Norbert J. Moorleghen, superintendent of Clinton County Educational Service Region, and legislation chairman of the state association.

"On the plaque we refer to Senator Sam as 'The History Maker.' Moorleghen said, 'Although he has helped our efforts to upgrade education in Illinois in innumerable ways, we were thinking particularly of his dedicated effort in the House in 1969, when he sponsored and fought for passage of House Bill 1470.'

"This bill reorganized the system from counties into larger, more efficient and economical districts. It was that contribution we particularly wanted to honor Senator Vadalabene for."

"There is nothing that I am prouder of in my work as a legislator than my efforts in behalf of education," Vadalabene said in accepting the plaque. "It's particularly gratifying that efforts that go back to 1969 are still remembered. This will only cause me to redouble my efforts in this area in the future. I am deeply grateful to the association for this award."

WARREN WERNERS NAME FIRST CHILD AMY
Mr. and Mrs. Warren Werner, 5225 Bancroft St., St. Louis, are announcing the birth of their first child, a girl, born Nov. 19 at Barnes Hospital.

The new arrival has been named Amy Elizabeth. She weighed seven pounds, four ounces.

The mother is the former Miss Janet Shelton, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Shelton of Granite City. The paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Werner, reside in Ferguson, Mo.

Complete training for girls in all phases of restaurant operation will begin soon, according to Morris, and once each week local groups will be invited to lunch to see the quality of the training and become familiar with the general program being offered.

The Madison club inducted five new members, Father John O'Connell, Richard Kismier, Robert Marvin, Thomas Fields, and William Crickfield.

Granite City Rotarians visiting the club were John Smith and Ethel Duggan.

Rotary hears about OATH
The Organization for The Advancement of Handicapped Inc. (OATH) was explained to the Madison Rotary Club at its Wednesday noon meeting in the Madison Recreation Center by OATH's president, Milton Morris of Venice.

Morris explained that a building has been purchased at Seventh and State streets in Madison for the training of physical and mentally handicapped. The building currently is being renovated with steel doors, automatic fire alarm and ramps for wheel chairs.

OATH purchased the building for $25,000 and 12 individuals have guaranteed the loan. The program will be financed through sale of stock at $10 a share.

It further appearing to the Court that it is for the best interest of the District that said property be sold and that a public sale be published requesting sealed bids.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED AS FOLLOWS:

1. That the Petition be allowed to sell the unused land described in the Petition of the Drainage District at a public sale for cash upon the delivery of a deed executed by the Commissioners and the Commissioners are hereby ordered to execute and deliver said deed upon receipt of cash, as aforesaid.

2. That sealed bids be received in the Office of Robert Douglas, Secretary of the said Drainage District, Canal Motel, W. Chain Rock Road, Rt. 100, Box 1196, Granite City, Illinois 62040, until 4:00 p.m. on the 20th day of December, 1974.

3. That the Clerk of the Court publish notice of the receiving of the bids as aforesaid, in the Granite City Press-Record, in accordance with Chapter 42, paragraph 4-29, to wit: The Illinois Compiled Statutes, 1973, which said notice shall be published each week for two successive weeks, the first publication of the notice shall be at least three weeks prior to the date of receiving bids as aforesaid.

4. That the Commissioners shall have the right to reject any and all bids if, in their discretion they believe that the price quoted in the sealed bids is not for the best interest of the District.

5. That the property to be sold is shown on the plat attached to this order and made a part thereof.

Dated: November 15, 1974.

Study cites Press-Record, films, TV as 'contemporary literature'

Dr. Goni Michaeloff, chairman of the English and speech department at Granite City High School North, was a participant at the Midwest Modern Language Association's annual meeting for 1974. Dr. Michaeloff was invited to present a paper and participated in a forum, "Teaching Contemporary Literature," Gilbert Wainsley, GCHSN principal, announced.

Dr. Michaeloff's paper was entitled, "What Does Contemporary Literature Mean to the High School Student?" The paper analyzed the responses of 250 graduating seniors who were asked to reply to the following questions: "What is contemporary literature? What contemporary literature do you read? What are the values of contemporary literature to you?"

The paper considered solutions to problems concerning both the study and the teaching of contemporary literature in relation to curriculum planning. Wainsley said he believes the following excerpt from Dr. Michaeloff's paper may have special interest for local citizens:

"Some students contend that the scope of contemporary literature includes paperbacks, magazines and newspapers, and also films, television, radio and song lyrics. 'This wide variety,' writes one student,

'helps to form a realistic view of the world around us because of all the available information which is given to us.' "Students express various objectives concerning their reading of the Granite City

Press-Record. One girl likes this newspaper because it specifically pertains to this area. She reads 'about engagements and weddings, looks for rummage sales and apartments for rent, and follows the advertisement from Grant's. "Another girl is intrigued to see who has had wrecks, who has been robbed and who has been married." A boy wants to see what's happening in the world," in addition to specifically 'looking for something like a car in the want ads.

"Another boy looks 'for possibility of a good job or a nice car.' "Several students 'mainly read the editorials.' Some students want to get the inside story' or 'to know what's going on,' others try 'to keep up with the latest in sports.' "

Wainsley concluded that "this type of special teacher involvement brings desired recognition and credibility to the educational programs at Granite City High School North."

U.S. to study hydro-electric potential on Kaskaskia sites

Cong. Melvin Price, (D-23rd Ill.) has announced the House Public Works Committee has taken final favorable action on his resolution directing the Corps of Engineers to consider the feasibility of developing hydro-electric generating facilities at Carlyle and Shelbyville Lakes.

The Price resolution states "that the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is hereby requested to review the report of the Chief of Engineers on Kaskaskia River, Ill., published as House Document Numbered 232, 85th Congress, 1st Session, and other pertinent reports, with a view to determining whether any modification of the recommendations contained therein is desirable at this time, with particular reference to determining the feasibility of providing facilities for hydroelectric power generation at Carlyle Lake and Lake

Shelbyville, Kaskaskia River, Ill."

Rep. Price submitted the request to the Public Works Committee earlier this year in response to the inquiries by the cities of Highland, Carlyle and Breese about their power needs. The three communities established a municipal power group in order to find common solutions to their energy requirements and environmental needs.
